A TERRIBLE DEED.

A TERRIBLE DEED.

The scene of the tragedy is in a thinly settled portion of north Topeka, among an ignorant class of day laborers. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock. The house was supposed by the neighbors to be uninhabited. It has been learned that the family moved into the house about a month ago.

house early in the morning to build a new one. He has not had any work since he came back, and his wife and his children have been very disappointed. It was found about 11 o'clock and told of the terrible fate of his family. In a half hour he had gathered all his neighbors and his horses and hastened them to the spot. When he arrived he could only talk in an incoherent manner, and could give no information whatever to throw light on the affair.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S GAB

THE Cause of a Killing Near Cuba, Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, May 30.—A girl's fast conduct and faster tongue has caused a killing near Cuba in this country. A young daughter of John Wilson, well known fisherman here, who will shortly be married, had been in love with a young man who had always been her particular friend. From some cause the two got to quarreling, and the girl said to her companion: "You needn't be so airy. Your husband spends twice as much wife flew at her like a tiger; and waving her a sound thrashing when Nollyson and Leftwich came up. Nollyson pulled Mrs. Leftwich off his daughter and struck her. Leftwich thereupon drew his pistol and shot Nollyson four times, killing him instantly. The slayer fled, and has not yet been arrested, though a posse went in pursuit.

DIED SUDDENLY.

A Prominent Atlanta Citizen Passes Quietly Away.

ATLANTA, May 30.—Mr. Thomas C. Willingham, aged 65, an esteemed and prominent citizen of Atlanta, and well known throughout the state, has died at his home quietly and unexpectedly.

While sitting in his room in the morning conversing with his wife, he for the first time since his illness began to kneel in prayer, asked his wife to pray with him. After the prayer he arose as usual, "Amen" on his lips.

On arising he sat quietly in the chair next his wife. Shortly after he had noticed that his head was thrown back, she spoke to him, but he made no reply as the word "Amen" beyond the river into eternity.

Several Indictments Against Texans for Card Playing.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., May 30.—The grand jury has adjourned for the term, reporting 102 indictments for the trial for felony. Some of the members of the Commercial Union club have been indicted for playing cards in the basement in their club rooms. The last grand jury returned more than forty indictments on that offense, many of them against ladies of the club. Much indignation was shown against the county attorney and the Judge quashed the indictments on account of a technical error. Much talk has been made about the repetition of the indictments and it is thought that the bringing up of the old affair shows the grudging of a politician.

THEY ARE IN JAIL.

Robbers Hold and Gag a Man and Get $8,000.

NASHVILLE, Ill., May 30.—As H. Boelmer was on his way home, he was der the muzzle of revolvers, compelled him to give up his cash—$8,000—and other articles of value. Bollermeyer was then bound and gagged and left in an unconscious state.

As soon as he was found and the situation made known, a posse went in pursuit, and captured the men at Lonsburg, but not before they had managed to secrete $6,000 of the money.

AND HE DID.

A Young Lady Jokingly Told a Boy He Could Not Shoot Her.
GOSHEN, Ind., May 30.—A young son of Henry Crowfoot, who lives south of Mishawaka, and a neighbor boy, were playing with a toy shotgun. One of the boys asked Miss Crowfoot, who was sitting in the door, if he could shoot her when she jokingly said yes. He took aim and fired, shooting her in the eye and while destroying the sight.

Could Not Tell the Story.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 30.—Near Cumberland Gap, James Turner and M. Dreener, two laborers, while drunk were to a tent occupied by two lewd women and went to sleep. Presently Marie Noe and H. H. Harrison, the lovers of the women, came in and saw the men. They became furious, and drawing the ner and Dreuer. They made up a story for the women to tell, but they gave way on cross-examination. Noe is in jail near Cumberland Gap, and the sheriff is hunting for Harrison, and caught, a double lynching may be the result.

The Republican.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1891.

Some of the Democratic papers of the State are in favor of going into a primary election to settle the issue between Capt. Kolb and Gov. Jones. If it be true, as Capt. Kolb's friends claim, that he is so very strong with the people, his friends can hardly object to this.

The "Rufus Sanders" letters that have appeared in the REPUBLICAN, the Montgomery Advertiser. They are the work of Mr. Francis D. Lloyd, a bright and gifted young man who has been some time on the Advertiser staff.

The newspapers say that Mountain Gap Alliance in Pike county, Georgia, threaten to march to Atlanta this summer with Winchester rifles, if necessary, and force the Georgia legislature, which meets soon, to defeat the bill making an appropriation to the World's fair. And all the country is laughing at the Mountain Gap boys.

President L. L. Polk's paper misses it badly when it predicts that the Southern Alliance will join the new third party. Some of them will go off with it, but the great bulk of them will remain with the Democratic party. This attempt to turn the Alliance in the South against the Democratic party will break up the Alliance before it will break up the Democratic party.

Examiner Reeves has replied in a dignified way to the puerile charges made against him by the Alliance Herald and shown his action to be entirely legitimate. He shows further that he was unusually kind to Capt. Kolb and gave him the benefit of every doubt. He says his office was near that of the Commissioner; that they met almost daily; that their personal relations were pleasant; that Capt. Kolb knew what his report would show, and that he never heard any complaint until after it was made.

The fishing trip to the Coosa river of the party of ladies and gentlemen from Jacksonville was full of pleasant incident, but exceedingly barren of fish. The river was not in good condition and even the professional fishermen along the river reported a poor catch each day. The party, however, got enough fish to eat and this was all they really cared for, aside from the novelty of the semi-camp life. The ladies were kindly taken care of at the house of Mr. W. Hart by his sister Mrs. Cook, and his daughters. The gentlemen camped in a house near by. Throughout the entire stay of the party they were the recipients of the most kindly and courteous attention on the part of those good people, and each and all of us will ever remember with pleasure the brief season spent among them.

Good rains had just prevailed throughout the southwestern section of the country and those farmers who were in cheerful spirits and hopeful of the future. That being the banner democratic stronghold of the county, we were curious to know how the new political movement were likely to effect things down the way, and were much gratified to hear that the noble people of that favored region intended to remain, as they have ever been, true to the democratic party under all circumstances. I am now the only purely white man in the government, (for the new party now in process of formation embraces political equality of the races in convention and otherwise) and the gallant white men of that region propose to stand by it until the last day in the morning. All honor to them.

Oxford has made less noise perhaps than any important town in the county and yet it has been growing right along with the best of them and has suffered less, perhaps, than any of them from the financial depression. The town has a fine trade from a large scope of country which no competition can cut off. It is naturally so situated that this trade would have to pass through its very streets to reach any other commercial point. It goes without saying that Oxford's thirty business men permit little of the trade to pass the town. The town has connection with Anniston by an electric car line which practically unites the two cities. This line leads beyond Oxford to a lovely lake and park constructed by a company of enterprising Oxford people. Oxford has been distinguished since the war for its fine educational advantages. The town now has electric lights and will no doubt soon have gas and water works. With such a system of water works as the town can have from the sale of its bonds it will be an admirable place of residence, for then it will have any and all of the conveniences of any large city. The work of street improvement is going ahead notwithstanding the hard times and everything about the town betokens life and energy. The city government is composed of five men fully awake to the needs of the town and abreast with the progressive spirit of the age. Keep your eye on Oxford. She is making no fuss, but she is right along up with the procession.

SENATOR MORGAN.

WHAT HE THINKS OF THE CINCINNATI MEETING.

A Strong Presentation of the Situation --Why Alliancesmen Should Stand Fast to the Democracy--The Danger of Creating a Faction Inside the Party--Words of Wisdom that Should be Read and Heeded.

From the Selma Times-Mail.

Senator John T. Morgan has been in Selma for several days. A Times-Mail representative met the Senator yesterday and asked him if he had any objection to giving his views on the Third Party movement, recently undertaken in Cincinnati. We cheerfully surrender the editorial space of the Times-Mail to General Morgan's reply, which was as follows:

"My answer to your question as to the third party movement is that it has failed to materialize. The recent assemblage in Cincinnati was the most abortive of all the movements that have been made towards establishing a national party. The promoters of that 'third party' found it necessary to take two steps to secure the coveted result. First, to secure the control of the Alliance and then convert it from a farmers' association into a merely political party. The second step failed as it should have done.

President Polk thinks the second step premature, and that it would have succeeded a year hence; but it never could have been successful, and now it is an utter failure.

It was vainly supposed that another year of work in tightening the grip of the Alliance organization on the voting power of its membership would enable the politicians in that association to swing it, bodily, into an attitude of organized hostility to the Republican and Democratic parties. Those Alliance politicians made the mistake of supposing that they continue to monopolize the political power of the body by locking themselves within the fold and locking out almost every experienced statesman, judge, legislator and executive officer in both the great parties. But the body of the Alliance while sincere, and trustful, are still wise, prudent, and watchful, and have already detected the personal ambition that is leading them into hostility towards men who have done all that men could do for the agricultural classes, and in opposition to principles that are their only safeguard.

There is not one odious feature of centralization; of congressional omnipotence; of unjust taxation; of corrupt bounty and pension bribery; of the conspiracies that are called trusts; of monopoly; of irredeemable paper currency; or of class legislation, that is not either excused or fully justified by the platform adopted by this alleged third party at Cincinnati, which has assumed the baptismal name of the "People's Party."

The Alliance, and especially the Southern Alliance, are not responsible for all these utterances, but they escaped responsibility, only because the politicians, who assume to control them, could not restrain the insubordination of their henchmen a year longer.

I am glad that our southern Alliance, except the negro Alliance, were not represented in that body. Even the representatives of the negro Alliance seem to have been there mainly to have money raised for them to defray travelling expenses. Such negroes do not properly represent the great body of those people. A year's delay, after the heat of contention had inflamed idle disputants, and after strife and antagonism had been engendered among the people, would have made this a very dangerous movement to our people. To organize a third party for political purposes is utterly needless and mischievous.

The defeat of the force bill would be an empty success, if a few politicians in the misplaced confidence of the Alliance could have separated our people and placed them in controversy on false or collateral issues. Such a diversion would be felt de se. Why should we needlessly and at the bidding of discarded political machine-drivers, destroy ourselves and mar the future of this beautiful land? I need not answer a question that every patriot heart has already answered with a negative of the utmost solemnity.

"Do you think that the Alliance people are not justified in organizing a political party to protect their own interests?" Asked The Times-Mail representative.

Your question suggests a sad condition of the country, in which every class of people is demanding that the powers of the government, and the money collected by taxation, shall be used for their exclusive benefit. It is from these very combinations that the farmers have suffered so severely, and they have organized, it seems, a master combination of their own, to crush out the others.

If government in the United States means the triumph of the strongest combination of personal interest, the political phase of the Alliance movement is not only right but it is indispensable.

But a Democrat has a different idea of government. He believes that the constitution rules the people, and that a combination of money, force, or numbers is a destructive substitute for the constitution.

The Republican party is only a combination of combines. Take from it the combination based on monopolies, on chance, on trusts, on shipping and other bounties, and on race questions, and it would dissolve.

Nothing would be left of it. This is the fearful condition that has driven the farmers to seek a redress of grievances, which are real and beyond endurance, in a combination based on the protection of their own interests. No measure deserving for such action as the Alliance really contemplated; but it was too much to hope for, that politicians would not attempt to pervert this just movement to the selfish purposes of office seeking.

Their first great effort has failed, and the time is opportune for Southern Alliance to reflect upon the danger to our country of forcing our people to divide on questions that are really immaterial, and are insignificant when contrasted with the necessity for perfect unity of action in other matters that are vital.

Almost any Southern Alliance man will tell you he is opposed to any third party here. He thus admits that an organization that he approves and considers most essential in preserving his personal rights would destroy the country, if it should divide the people on a paramount issue.

But the same man will insist that he can safely create a faction inside of the Democratic party with perfect security, because the men who are locked out of the Alliance are so true to their country that they will not desert it for any wrong they may suffer. This is very true, but is it just? Have the politicians who have crept into the Alliance done anything for the farmers of greater value than those tried Democrats have done, who are expelled and ostracized by the new comers?

Of a sudden they cry out against the oppressive tariff tax, and demand the same reform that every true Democrat has worked to obtain since 1840. Then they demand the restoration of silver to free coinage at the mints, and claim a patent, as for an original invention on this idea, as if the Democratic party had not always insisted upon the free coinage of silver equally with gold.

Then they demand a currency reform to be inaugurated within the Democratic party, so as to correct a system that is the peculiar boast of the Republican party, in which it originated. This is like giving medicine to one to heal the sickness of another. The National Banking system is entirely of Republican origin. The banishment of silver coin from the legal tender currency was the work of Republicans, and is still upheld by that party. The McKinley tariff bill is in the express image of the Republican party. These measures are denounced, alike by the Alliance and the Democracy, and they are the vital issues that now concern the welfare of the people. These are the only questions on which the whole body of the Alliance agree, and they are simply the elementary outlines of division between the Democratic and Republican parties that have existed for many years.

Under such circumstances the question forces itself on our attention, whether the Alliance can make more progress in its great cardinal work of reform, by excluding Democrats from its councils, who are not farmers, than by working in harmony with them.

It is a curious thought that the Alliance should exclude all men who are not farmers, from all real influence in their great work of reform and still expect to defeat their powerful enemy--the Republican party. While the membership of the Alliance are held bound to their obedience by oaths and pledges, the outsiders, who are Democrats, are trusted to help their work of reform, with no other guarantee of fidelity than their loyalty to principles and their love of justice. The Alliance could not be beguiled into this unreasonable attitude, if the politicians who have crept in did not see their advantage in the hope of destroying the Democratic party, and creating a third party.

This unworthy effort has had ill success so far, and I hope it is abandoned. Within the Democratic party there are those who make themselves unhappy about what shall be the issue on which we are to contest the field with the Republicans in 1892.

The questions are many, and every issue is distinctly made. We should not abandon any of them. While the Republican party is attacking the solid Democratic square, on every front, it is worse than folly that we should throw away all our guns but one, and hope to win the day with that.

Our lawyers have a practice of trying cases that involve many questions upon an issue that they call "the general issue by consent." Under that issue every question is raised that has any bearing on the case, and any competent evidence is admissible to go to the jury.

Our controversy with the Republican party should be tried upon the general, broad issue, which will bring all their principles and all their practices before the people for their thorough examination. The verdict is not doubtful if the whole case is presented.

Congressman Herbert, of the Second District, follows the example of his colleague, General Forney, of the Seventh, in announcing that he will not stand for re-election next year. He has been a conspicuous and useful member for many years, and the people will never forget his earnest labors in their behalf. They will wish him success and prosperity in whatever he may undertake. Birmingham Age-Herald.

GAITHER IS IN IT.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

AND HE IS VERY HOPEFUL OF GREAT RESULTS, TOO.

If the Alliance Does Not Put a ticket in The Field the People's Party Will-Gaither Not a Delegate, But a Member of the Central Committee.

BERMINGHAM, May 24.--George F. Gaither, business manager of the Alabama Alliance Exchange, returned this morning from Cincinnati where he was elected a member of the Central National Executive Committee of the People's Party.

In an interview Mr. Gaither, said that he did not go to Cincinnati as a delegate but went on his own account. He has great hope for the People's Party.

He thought it was a good thing, and took stock. He is "in it." The most interesting thing, however, and by the way, something new is what Mr. Gaither says about the proposed plan of the People's Party in reference to Farmer's Alliance. He says:

"There delegates have been appointed from each State to meet at the National Convention of the Farmer's Alliance and Industrial Union which convenes February 23rd, next, and lay before them the plans of the People's Party. If the Alliance decides not to put a National ticket in the field next year the People's Party will put a ticket out, no doubt will get the Alliance vote. On the other hand, if the Alliance puts a ticket out next year the People's Party will put no ticket in the field, but will vote for the Alliance ticket."

"In other words, either the People's Party or the Alliance will put out a ticket. Both of them will not do so, however."

A Senatorial Contest.

There is a prospective senatorial contest up in Tennessee that may prove quite interesting.

The next Legislature will elect a successor to Senator Bate, and politics are shaping up in such a fashion as to indicate that there will be one or more candidates in the field in opposition to the present incumbent.

Senator Bate is not regarded as a strong man, though he is a Simon-pure Democrat and has always held a strong hold on the affections of the Tennesseans. He was a gallant officer in the Confederate army, and then led the Democracy to a glorious victory in 1882 over the Republicans and a seceding Democratic faction that had withdrawn from the main branch of the party on the State debt issue.

This was the more appreciated because a similar division in the Democratic ranks had caused the election of a Republican Governor two years previous and it was feared that party dissension was taking the State out of Democratic control.

All of this is in Senator Bate's favor but politics have taken a new tack since 1882 and new elements will enter into the contest.

Ex-Senator McDowell, who stood high in the councils of the Alliance and is an earnest advocate of the sub-treasury, is understood to have senatorial aspirations and is unmistakably setting his traps to catch the office.

Col. Josiah Patterson, Congressman-elect from the Tenth-Memphis district is also thought to be a candidate. He has considerable following, is pronounced in opposition to the sub-treasury and his probable candidacy makes the issue more doubtful than it would be otherwise.

The matter is further complicated by the fact that some of the leading Tennessee Alliance men have declared openly against the Sub-Treasury. Hon. Ed. Wade, the State Secretary of the organization, has written a letter so defining his position, and it is expected that Governor Buchanan, who was president of the State Alliance previous to his election, will do the same thing.

McDowell now holds a lucrative office, by appointment of Governor Buchanan, and it has been supposed that he would have the Governor's support in his candidacy for the Senate; but if the Governor declares himself in opposition to the Sub-Treasury scheme, this can hardly be the case.

The election is some time off yet, and that, too, is a fact that makes against McDowell. The Sub-Treasury bill is probably more popular now than it will be at any time in the future.

It promises to be an interesting contest. Birmingham Age-Herald.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. A CALL FOR EXPLANATION.

An Alliance man Who Stands to His Opinions Regardless of Order of Expulsion.

Editor Montgomery Advertiser: Here is one of the Ocala resolutions that I earnestly beg you, to help me solve, I am about to give it up in despair, it reads:

"We demand that the government shall establish sub-treasuries or depositories in the several states, which shall loan money direct to the people at a low rate of interest, not to exceed 2 per cent, interest per annum on non perishable farm products and also upon real estate, with a proper limitation upon the quality of land and the amount of the circulating medium be speedily increased to not less than $50 per capita."

Now my way of thinking is that if the treasury of the Federal government is empty, we will have to be taxed for the support of the government. Suppose that I and all others should be taxed say $25 each for the support of the government, and all men should want to borrow say $500, would not the government first have to tax the people $500 each, to get the money to loan, and this $500 must be over and above our tax for the support of the government. How is this money to come in any other way. Now if the money is to be raised by taxing us for the amount we want to borrow, would it not be better to keep the money in our pockets and not have to pay 2 per cent to get it back as a loan from the government. But say that the government borrows the money, would it not have to give our land and products as a collateral? What is to become of those that deal in perishable products? They can not according to this resolution, borrow the cheap money, and they cannot bank their produce. Yet they will have to bear a share of this tax to raise a sufficient amount of money to loan those who raise non-perishable products. You will please carefully read the first resolution and then carefully read the fifth:

"Believing in the doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none, we demand that our national legislation be so framed in the future as not to build up one industry at the expense of another." Does not the fifth resolution knock the stuffing out of the first by taxing those who deal in perishable products that the government may have sufficient money to loan to those who raise non-perishable products? Would not that be building up one industry at the expense of another? Would it be equal rights to all and special privileges to none?

Now I am with the fifth, but have no fondness for the first. I believe that money should be kept in the hands of the people. I believe in the people getting the money by honest labor, and strict economy will give us the money. I am in debt and it is my own fault and I do not ask aid from the government, and want no man to take to relieve me. I am afraid that some of these Ocala resolutions will be of serious hurt to the order Mr. Adams' letter in a recent issue of The Herald lets me out. Those resolutions are not in line with the constitution. It is plain to be seen that by the next national meeting we will be forced to depart from our political principles; and the oftener we submit to such, the oftener we will be called on to do so.

I cannot defend the first resolution and will most positively give no encouragement to such stuff. We were assured in the beginning that our obligation to the Alliance should not conflict with our political views, and as I was born a Democrat and rocked in a Democratic cradle, I am determined to fill a Democratic grave, and no power on earth can or shall prevent my voting a Democratic ticket in '92, even though I vote singly and alone. I am my own man to do my own thinking and will stay in no order that forbids it.

Respectfully, M. B. ROGERS. Mto, Ala., May 30, 1891.

WHEN THE ADVERTISER had something to say about Brother Gaither's political eccentricities last year, it was accused of attacking the Alliance though one of its leaders. Now however, he appears in his true light as an enemy of the Democracy and has been made one of the chief officials of the third party. He bossed one of the last State conventions held in this State in opposition to the Democratic party and was a candidate in 1888 for Congress against Gen. Forney, who was the Democratic nominee. He feels all right now and will use all his influence to break down the great party of the people. He is not the only man prominent in Alliance circles who will follow the same course. Montgomery Advertiser.

Private John Allen has taken the stump over in Mississippi and is dealing heavy blows to the sub-treasury scheme with good jokes and sound logic. He spoke to a large audience at Magnolia Friday and to another at Brookhaven Saturday, and was well received on both occasions. His platform is that the Alliance is all right, but the sub-treasury all wrong. He tells the farmers what they need to redress their grievances is tariff reform and more money of a safe and Constitutional kind, and that these things can be had by placing the Democratic party on top in National affairs. Private John is a wheel-horse in Mississippi. Especially in the First District, which he has so long represented in Congress. Birmingham Age-Herald.

By virtue of an execution issued from the circuit court of Calhoun county, Alabama on 24 day of June 1891, in favor of the Wilcox & Gibbs Lumber Co., J. L. Ledbetter and W. J. Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The advantage of deep plowing is well illustrated in a little field of oats planted by Mr. Rowan this year. The patch was plowed the ordinary depth and the oats sown. Previous to plowing a ditch had been dug across the ground for a sewer pipe and filled up when the pipe was laid. During the dry season when the oats on other parts of the field looked sickly, the line of the ditch could be easily traced by the fresh and green appearance of the oats along it; and at all times the growth along that particular line has been much more vigorous than in any other part of the little field.

The recently elected United States Senator of Georgia, General John B. Gordon, says:

Respectfully,

Grayton Dots.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—As I have seen nothing from these parts I will try to give you a few dots.

Charles Anderson and Miss Nancy Reynolds were married last Sunday at 3 o'clock in the presence of a large audience. N. D. Meharg Esq., officiated.

We have read the speech of B. G. McClelen on the Third Party, Sub-Treasury &c., with great interest and believe it to be a good thing (the speech,) but before making up our minds we want to hear from E. M. Reid Esq., on the subject. Let us hear from you squire.

Health of community very good. Crop prospects improving since the rains.

Gray Meharg spent a part of Sunday and Monday with his parents and friends.

More rain would be acceptable this week.

A CITIZEN.

SOME resolutions condemning Governor Jones and Examiner Reeves, and extolling Commissioner Kolb were adopted at a recent meeting of the Mardisville Alliance, Talladega county. It will perhaps interest the public to learn that they appear in print over the signature of S. R. Bingham as Secretary and that THE ADVERTISER has before it a letter which states that it is reported that "Samuel R. Bingham prepared the resolutions." Who is Bingham? No man in Talladega would ask such a question. He is a son of Arthur Bingham, the leading Republican of that part of the State and is as much opposed to the Democracy as his father is. He is, no doubt, much more gratified at the adoption by Mardisville Alliance of slurs at Democratic officials, than he is sincere in laudation of Kolb. The resolutions are absolutely silent as to the pass business.—Montgomery Advertiser

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Macon Telegraph: Of the $140,000,000 in pensions which the government will pay out next year about $3,000,000 will be taxed out of the farmers of Georgia. To any reasonable person this would seem enough. In fact, it is enough to account for a great part of the poverty and suffering of which they complain. But the People's party does not think so. It demands that the farmers of Georgia shall be taxed yet more, in order that the hundreds of millions paid in green backs to hire men to enter the Federal armies may be made equal in value to the same number of millions in coin. Of course this is a bid for the old soldier vote, and if the bid be accepted, the farmers of the South will be obliged to furnish most of the money to pay the price. The Western brethren can afford to bid high with other people's money. They know they will get back all they contribute, together with part of that contributed from those sections in which there are no pensioners.

Of Interest to All.

Do you wish to save money? Do you wish for an article in your household (without which no household is complete) that will soon save more than its cost and still continue to save? Do you wish for an article in your household for which you would not take ten times its cost and do without? Do you wish to save yourself or daughter from slaving an apprenticeship and a cost of from twenty-five to one hundred dollars to learn to cut and fit a nice dress to say nothing of mens' wear and children's clothing? Remember we instruct you how to cut and fit every garment worn by men, women and children, none excepted. Do not fail to investigate it, for it must be seen to be fully appreciated, and if you don't see it you are sure to harbor the erroneous idea that it is a complicated system, and that you can't learn, or that it is something that after you had bought you would lay aside and never use. For it is none of these. But it is a tailor's rules simplified to such an extent that any school girl can use them successfully. The agent here will be pleased to explain this clever little device to any one and to illustrate its advantages.

Having examined the N. G. Cutter I can conscientiously say that I have never seen a better system.

GEORGE MARION, Dress Maker.

ANNISTON, ALA., April 18, 1891. To whom it may Concern: I learned the National Garment Cutter at Aberdeen, Miss., and can and do recommend it to the people of Anniston and vicinity as being very simple and easily learned and absolutely correct. Unlike other systems it cuts any and all of every garment worn. I would not be without it for a great deal more than it cost.

MISS O. W. HAMPTON.

ANNISTON, ALA., April 18, 1891. H. W. RUMBEY, Gen'l Agt. Nat. Garment Cutter, Anniston, Ala. Dear Sir:—I have been using the National Garment Cutter but a short time only, but with so much satisfaction that I feel warranted in recommending it to the ladies of Anniston and vicinity.

MRS. T. F. WHETSTONE.

ANNISTON, ALA., April 18, 1891. I am taking lessons in the use of the N. G. Cutter and find it to be just as represented. It has already enabled me to do my work a great deal more satisfactorily than ever before, and feel sure that any lady will find it a very necessary accomplishment. I gladly recommend it to all.

The Republican.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1891.

Certainly the REPUBLICAN cannot be accused of partiality this week in matter of correspondence. It surrenders it whole space to four farmers in order both that they may be heard and in order that our readers may see the great divergence of opinion among the important class of our people on current political topics.

Strange to say, we do not agree fully with any one of the writers. Mr. Williams was invited by the Alliance of Alexandria to enlighten them on the sub-treasury bill. He gave them instead a terrific arraignment of their own Democratic party. He yokes the Republican and Democratic parties together and indicts them equally before the people as false to their interests, and admits that he reluctantly attacks the Democratic party after "prayerful" consideration of the Ocala demands. He won't admit that the Democratic party has even good intentions; but on the contrary, accuses it of lying and hypocrisy in its platform.

We deny his indictment of the Democratic party. We do not believe he represents the Alliance of Calhoun when he thus arraigns it. The Democratic party has not been in power in the general government since the war, but it has been fighting desperately all the measures of the Republican party of which the people now justly complain. It has tried to enforce the principle of "special favors to none," by taking the fingers of the tariff robbers from the throats of the people; and strange to say, just when victory promises to crown its efforts, Mr. Williams and others who accept the principles of the sub-treasury bill and the centralizing doctrine of government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines change the line of battle and insist on fighting it out on a line suggested by Western Republicans, and which admits every principle that the tariff robbers and money kings of the country have contended for and secured through Republican legislation.

One of the chief causes of the distress of the people is the rapid payment of the enormous debt incurred in the prosecution of the war. It has enabled the bondholders of the government to control the currency, and through such control gather in the fruits of the toil of the people. Government ownership of railroads would fix upon our people and their descendants a debt four times as large as that incurred by the prosecution of the war and would perpetuate a moulted oligarchy, which the whole of consistency is this: People of the west who live along the lines of the great Pacific railways, which have no competition, feel the weight of their power and, being Republicans, they naturally want the government to own them; but no such conditions exist in the South and we cannot afford to take upon ourselves a further hundred years of bondage to the bondholders for the benefit of these people. We of the South have borne enough, God knows, and when it is about to come around to our time it is mid-summer madness for us to be running after schemes of relief which originate under the exceptional conditions which exist in some parts of the West. We owe it to our children to look first after the welfare of the South. That can be best secured by strict construction of the constitution which protects us from force bills and military despotism and by an insistence on an economical administration of government and by an enforcement of the good old Democratic doctrine of "equal privileges to all, special favors to none." On this line, united, we can whip the fight and give to the people good government, as we have done in Alabama. If we abandon it we fall into contradictions and divisions, and will meet defeat. Divided we are lost. How can half the white people of the South do what it takes all the white people of the South to do?

If Southern men follow the lead of Mr. Williams outside the Democratic party on the platform lately endorsed by the Peoples Party at Cincinnati they will soon have neither substance nor liberty.

As to Mr. Pitts' letter, we think he makes the mistake of confusing some of the wildest and at the same time most influential element of the Alliance with the whole body of its membership and of judging a great order by the dissenting expressions of its gabbers who have learned what they think they know from the ranting columns of class journals which are just now flooding the country, at the expense of the tariff league, and which are trying to "educate" the farmers away from a discussion of the tariff and set them off in pursuit of butterflies and shadows. When you get down to the real body and controlling influence of the Alliance there will not be found a disposition to depart from Democratic principles, policy or practice. They stand upon that best plank in their platform, the plank which has ever been strongest in the Democratic platform—"equal privileges to all, special favors to none." They recognize that in a civilized state of society there must be a division of labor and that all manner of labor is honorable. They have no disposition to proscribe men because of occupation, if it be honorable. They leave the work of proscription and disfranchisement to the Radical party which originated it and first practiced it in this country, and to the few wild and noisy men who have suddenly learned to distrust Southern leaders and who have fallen so violently in love with Western Radicals like McGrath. Mr. Pitts, we say, is inclined to judge the order by these noisy fellows who are always speaking for it without authority and compromising it without judgment. The great bulk of thoughtful Southern Alliance men regard the sub-treasury bill and government ownership of railroads as undemocratic and destructive of southern interests. Otherwise the platform of the Alliance is reasonable and Democratic. These two planks were designedly inserted at St. Louis to divide the Southern people and thus benefit the Republican party and to commit the farmers of the whole Union to a principle which, if once admitted, will lie their hands against the men who have been systematically robbing them through the tariff laws. Thoughtful men of the Alliance in Alabama are seeing this and these planks will be eventually repudiated in Alabama as they have been in Virginia. Then there will be no reason why there should be any division among the white people of the State, but every reason why we should all go hand in hand to the correction of abuses and the uplifting of the masses of the people who have so long suffered from the effects of misgovernment by the Republican party.

In Mr. Reid's letter there is much to commend, especially that part of it where he declares his undying fidelity to the Democratic party; but he makes the mistake of accepting the principles of the sub-treasury bill while objecting to its method. If he means by this that he is in favor of constitutional and democratic measures for the needs of business, then he is right; but if he is ready to support measures that tend toward a paternal and centralized form of government in securing this needed currency, we trust he will pause and look well to the old democratic landmarks. The critical danger of our people is that they may get off the base of democratic principles which are the hope, the shield, and the safeguard of the Southern people. But for the brave party which has ever fought to uphold these principles, the people of the South would long since have passed under a military despotism and suffered cruelties and indignities no less harsh and degrading than those to-day practiced upon the Russian Jews by the minions of the Czar.

The letter of Mr. Stephens being mainly a lecture to the editor of the REPUBLICAN we shall reply to it only in so far as to repel the charge of partiality and to correct some of his far as this section of country is concerned that nine farms out of ten are under mortgage. It may be doubted if even one out of ten is so. It is further true that this section of the Union is in better condition by far than for a long period following the war. Mr. Stephens may be describing Western conditions, but certainly not Southern conditions. But we are all poor enough, God knows, and the Republican party policy and our own lack of thrift are responsible for it. Certainly not the Democratic party. The condition Mr. Stephens gives a glimpse of is not confined to the farmers. The struggle for bread is just as hard to those in towns and cities as to those in the country. We are all in the same boat. Then why turn our guns upon each other and cease the relentless war on the Republican party which we have been waging for forty years or more? Why abandon democratic principles to fight the devil with fire, as has been suggested by advocates of the centralizing doctrines contained in the third party platform?

We deny that the REPUBLICAN publishes a great many things against the Alliance. It has ever been friendly to the Alliance and has never condemned the order. We know the grievance of the farmer is real. We sympathize with him in his light. We have only been anxious lest our people get off democratic ground in making that fight. When men have indicted the Democratic party in speaking for the sub-treasury bill, we have interposed to defend our party; that is all. Does Mr. Stephens object to this Democratic paper defending Democratic principles?

The comments of the three Republican officials to which he alludes were on the third party platform recently adopted at Cincinnati and not published as news. We did not feel called upon to defend that party platform—we are a Democrat. Mr. Stephens misinterprets our advice to "make haste slowly." Men all over Alabama are pledging themselves in advance to a virtual support of the third party platform. We say wait until your party has made its platform. There is no disposition here to exclude any democrat from participation in that work. The REPUBLICAN has ever urged the people to go out to the primaries and take part in the political movements of the day. We love to see them thus participating and then we love to see them stand by the work of their own hands.

The intimation that some men in this country make politics a trade is not worth notice. Men generally in the South come out of office poorer than when they entered. It is no disgrace to a man to be known as a politician. The study of the science of government is the highest and noblest secular pursuit. The fact that men have been selected by their fellow citizens to represent them and to speak for them in the councils of state and general government is no discredit to them. They are of the people and from the people and in full sympathy with the people. The public men of the South have attested their devotion to the Southern people in a thousand ways, and we think we do not violate the truth when we say they are quite as intelligent, quite as honest, quite as self-sacrificing, and quite as much in sympathy with the people as the men who are trying to discredit them in order that they may step into their shoes.

Letter From Farmer Reid, Esq., On The Sub-Treasury, Third Party Etc.

MORRISVILLE, ALA., June 9th 1891. Editor Republican: Dear sir several alliance men and other good citizens of the county have written to me and otherwise expressed a desire to know my opinion about an address made by B. G. McClellan to the Alexandria Alliance on the 9th day of May in behalf of our sub-treasury plan, third party etc. I will give my opinion on these matters and then all will know what I think about Bro McClellan's argument. In the first place I say that the principles of our sub-treasury plan are all right, but the methods proposed to carry them out are all wrong. There is certainly no man of common sense who will not admit that we ought to have twice as much money in circulation as we now have in the United States. It is true that there is a great deal of money in the country, but it is in the hands of men, corporations, trusts, etc., who will not loan it to farmers and others who need it except on such terms as will do them more harm than good, and for this reason it is a curse instead of a blessing to a large number of people living in this country. The farmers are not alone in this matter. There are many people of other professions who are suffering for the lack of money to carry on their business, but how are we to put the money we need in circulation? It is said that our sub-treasury plan would furnish all the money that everybody needs. I deny this assertion. There never has been a remedy offered for any existing evil that was farther from being effective than our sub-treasury plan would be in supplying the country with plenty of money any length of time. It would ruin our country, and the farmers and laborers would be the greatest sufferers. We ask for equal rights for all and special favors for none. Let us examine a little and see how we propose to secure these blessings. We ask for warehouses to be built and let us store our cotton and grain in them and draw from the government 80 per cent of the market value. Would this be equal rights? I think not. Equal rights would include all kinds of farm products and the products of all kinds of industry. No, the farmers draw 80 per cent, and the others draw 20 per cent, on them at market value. How much would all those warehouses and necessary expenses cost the government? I cannot say. There are about seven hundred counties in the U S that would be entitled to a warehouse under the law, and each house and other expenses would cost at least $50,000. Multiply this amount by 700 and add 80 per cent of the value of all surplus farm products and clerk hire, laborers wages and stealage and it will be sufficient to show to any man of common sense that a more foolish proposition has never been presented to any nation on earth in the shape of legislation. No wonder that Bro. McClellan said that there was a great deal more in the Ocala platform than he could solve. I accept the Ocala platform, but when it comes to the method of putting the sub-treasury plan in operation I say give me something better etc.

Now about the third party. I cannot understand why any Democrat should want to organize a third party, especially in the Southern States. We owe all of our prosperity, as we are, to the organized Democracy. All of our leaders in the Alliance in Alabama except one, claim to be Democrats and the rank and file of the alliance are Democrats; and as long as we stick together we have some chance to accomplish something in matters of legislation for our good; but when we attempt to organize the third party in state we will split the Alliance wide open. What can we do then? Some say that we must organize a third party so that we can get help from the western states. Well is it not a fact that two years ago those western fellows who are now patting us on the back voted for Ben Harrison for president? The State of Kansas gave him 50,000 majority; and is it not true that these same fellows have exhausted the whole vocabulary of the English language hunting something to say concerning us suitable to the spite and malice because we are southern people? But, says one, we have agreed to lay down sectionalism. That may be true, but I notice that at Cincinnati the day that the three-legged monstrosity called the people's party was born they opened and closed the proceedings doxology and all, by singing John Browns Body etc. We had better keep all that we have got. If the west went vote with us as we are for reform, they would not do so under any circumstances. All can think or do as they may see proper, but I am no third party man. I am a Democrat, and if I lived in a Democratic country I would live in a Democratic country. I was a Confederate or "Rebel" during the war and I have no apologies to make to any one. I love the South and I intend to do all that is in my power while I live to uphold and maintain her rights and honor in every way, and especially white supremacy.

Very Respectfully
E. M. REID.

MR. WILLIAMS' ADDRESS

Before the Alexandria Alliance.

ALEXANDRIA, ALA., May 28, '91.

Dear Sir:—You will find enclosed speech, which our Alliance request me to send to you for publication.

Respectfully,
J. B. H. LUMPKIN,
Secretary.

MR. PRESIDENT AND BROTHERS OF ALEXANDRIA ALLIANCE:—As you have conferred the honor upon me of lecturing you to day upon the questions involved in the principles enunciated by the St. Louis convention and ratified at Ocala, and as I am incompetent to interest you as my Bro. McClellan, has done with a logical essay and as my time up to the present has not permitted me to put my thoughts on the subject in a written essay, I shall have to depend on my immature and meagre recollection of such data on those important subjects, as I shall be able to briefly present for your consideration at this time. Having been a life long Democrat, and in the past history of my political life, been true to the doctrine of my fathers, I have been very loath to take any position or use any word but for the advancement and establishment and cherishing principles of the grand old and cherished principles of my down-trodden fellow sufferers in the cause of freedom until after a careful, and I trust, prayerful investigation of these important and deep reaching subjects, appertaining to the Ocala action. First then—We have the sub-treasury bill laid down for our adoption. Without going into detail upon this hitherto misunderstood and mooted question, I am willing to adopt it as the best measure yet offered for our relief. It is true, as our political enemies claim, that the expense of building and equipping the various warehouses and getting them into running order will be heavy; but it will bring relief notwithstanding hitherto withheld. And brethren of Alexandria we ought to study this question, if we have not given it much thought in the past, and in order to be in union with our brethren ought to adopt this plank expecting that in the wisdom of our order, if it can be done something more economic shall be substituted. Again, we ask for the repeal of National banks and the issuing of money by the government directly to the people. The banking system fostered and protected by the government. The test. Will either party vote for the abolition of National Banks? Their past record proves to the contrary. Will they vote for government loan on lands at a low rate of interest? The bill reported adversely. Would they vote to increase the currency to $50 per capita? Most emphatically not. Will they vote to take the tariff from the necessities of life? They have been quarrelling for a century over that point and are nearer a settlement now than when it was first agitated. Will they vote for graduated income tax? Certainly not. They would vote against it every time. Would they vote to limit the expenses of the government to an economical basis? No. They talk one way and vote for all manner of reckless expenditures, until the last congress succeed them all in a reckless extravagance of a billion dollars of the peoples' money. Will either party vote for government ownership or control of railroads and telegraphs. No. They continually vote in the opposite direction.

Where then is the single demand made at Ocala that either the Democratic or Republican parties will take up and enact into a law? There is absolutely not one. Let us demand of our representatives just what portion of the Ocala demands they will support. Follow this up closely and the truth will soon be disclosed that not a single demand among them all can or will be considered and adopted by either of the old parties. They may point with pride to the platforms adopted in the past, but congressional records prove that these platforms are simply made to deceive the people and catch the vote of the people and do not in any sense represent the real motives of the parties. And now brethren of the order it is our intention that these vital subjects shall be studied and agitated by our order until a revolution shall come to the hewers of wood and drawers of water of this noble republic. Shall we who are the wealth producers of this country and hold in our hands the redress we demand go unheeded and unheard in these demands. Liberty or death.

When the immortal Henry pronounced these words they resounded throughout a continent and came echoing from the farthest shores of the old world. Why? Because it touched a chord in every man's heart with a soul noble enough to brave the grim monster in any shape, rather than that his rights should be taken away from him and he should deliver down to his posterity an inheritance of slavery. It has been shown repeatedly that freedom is obedience to just and rightful law, and none of the plutocratic press has had the grit to gainsay it. Not a sound has been heard in the denial of these propositions by that portion of the public press interested in maintaining the present order of things.

Why have they continued silent on these propositions? Also our papers have gone on and asserted time and again that the public affairs were run at a most corrupt rate, with a taxation grinding the producer and laborer, and partially exempting the capitalists. Now had we stopped here, the managers of public affairs might have been excusable. But we did not stop here. After giving a complete diagnosis of the disease like honest men full of their work, we suggested a remedy. What more could we do? Three millions of people speaking through their organizations for three millions more unorganized have set forth bill of grievances and have suggested a remedy, and what follows? The same action of tyranny in all ages. They fight the people and their propositions from the beginning. Why? Because it is their interest to do so. Their party and their moneyed interest, they are fighting the peoples' interest for their own interest. It is simply the rights and interest of the people against party and plutocratic interest. Now brethren shall we not inform ourselves on these grave and far reaching questions? But we have made no mistake in drawing the picture so far. We are not organized to oppress but resist oppression. Americans are called upon to confront tyranny in its most dangerous and deceptive form. If the farmer is true to himself he cannot be false to his government.

To think of our self he true, And it must follow as the night the day, That cannot not then be false to any man. No slave is half such a slave, as he who winds the chain around his own limbs. If the people bow and humiliate submit to this moloch, and that too through ignorance of their own accord, we know of no such example in history, and can by no means guess the consequence. One thing we know, that it requires extreme exertion for the friends of freedom to prevent great and direful calamities to republican liberty.

LETTER FROM A TALLADEGA FARMER.

He Writes in Answer to Mr. Bailey G. McClellan.

MUNFORD, ALA., June 6, 1891.

ED. REPUBLICAN:—By your leave I desire to say a few words to Mr. Bailey G. McClellan whose address you published in your issue of May 30. The time has come in our history when every man should wake up and look about him, take his bearings and see where he is drifting; and now, Mr. McClellan, I desire you or any other Alliance man in your county or elsewhere to lay aside all prejudice before you read what I write and then, looking at all the questions from a purely democratic standpoint disprove what I say if you can. Now we quote from your address as follows: "It should behoove every true Alliance man to be on his guard and post himself well in Alliance doctrines which are founded upon pure Jeffersonian principles." Great Scott! This is almost enough to make old Jefferson get up and shake his fist at you. In the name of common decency, don't slander the old man that way. Now sir, I tell you that outside of some planks that have been in the Democratic platform several years your St. Louis and Ocala demands are not only devoid of Democracy but are silly and unreasonable. Democracy means a government of the people by the people and for the people. Your boasted Jeffersonian (?) doctrine would fill every office from constable to president with St. Louis and Ocala disciples and no other. You say we believe in equal rights to all men and special privileges to none; then you turn right around and virtually disfranchise and proscribe all the merchants, lawyers and others that are not eligible to membership in your order. Now if you should get control of the State and Federal government where would these men come in for an equal share of rights and privileges? It is really a burlesque on your order to use this motto. And further, do you really believe that the government could own and control the railroads and telegraph systems under a republican form of government? If you do you are sadly mistaken. The only way it could be done would be by confiscation. These (government officials) could place us under military law then garrison all our cities and railroad centres with a regular standing army or we can burn up our constitution and establish a monarchy. Either one of these plans gives them the same right to seize your farm, horse, cow or ox. You know these cannot, under our present system of government, force these men to sell out. Now don't forget to tell me how much pure (?) Jeffersonian principle you have here.

Now let us see about that cotton you sold at 12 1/2 cents (in your address) and make that matter a little plainer. You have 1000 lbs. lint cotton and I have 1000 lbs. This at 10 cents per lb. represents one hundred dollars each. Now we decide that we must have some money. You take your cotton to the warehouse and deposit one hundred dollars worth as security for the loan of eighty dollars. I take mine and sell it same day and get one hundred dollars cash. I loan out twenty dollars at 8 per cent, and use $80. Now you are paying interest on your own money, you are paying storage and you are suffering a loss in weight. These government employees must be paid and the farmers must do the dancing. Now you talk about putting more money in circulation. Your plan has put out $80 while mine has put out $100. You will never see your other $20, while in a few years I will have a respectable bank account. Now don't fail to show your true (?) Jeffersonian principle in this. Did you know that Congress has no power to levy a direct tax on the people of our State and the limit of taxation is fixed by our State constitution? Now how are you going to raise money to build your warehouses? When the last Democratic Administration passed from power it left in the treasury $130,000,000. Now every dollar of it is gone, and on the 1st of Sept. the government will be due $32,000,000 of bonds and it is said Secretary Foster is trying to borrow the money. Now so far as state legislation goes, the laboring people are better provided for than any other class. To prove this examine the code. The mechanic has a lien on all his work. You can make a bill with your merchant, doctor or lawyer, and if he does not bind you up in a mortgage or waive note you can dodge behind the home-stand or make your wife a free dealer. Now would you like a law that would give the doctor a lien on his patient? You patch up a wagon or buggy and you have a mechanic's lien. The doctor patches up his patients, the merchant sell them goods and groceries and yet they are left out in the cold unless the merchant can get in as landlord. The merchant, the lawyer and doctor are the hardest workers we have except mechanics. What could you do with goods you go to the merchant; when you get sick you send for the doctor. You will not accept a deed to a piece of land until it is passed on by a lawyer. I learned his trade by close application and hard work. His profession is just as honorable as yours. You have a bar in your county of the doctor and merchants of old Calhoun are an honor to her and to the State. Now sir, the standpoint from which I speak is justice and an everlasting principle that merit shall have its reward.

We cannot do without these men.

D. P. WILLIAMS.

LETTER FROM FARMER STEPHENS.

He Lectures the Editor of the Republican.

COLVIN'S GAP, ALA., June 5, '91.

ED. REPUBLICAN:—Bill Arp has time to sit down and ruminate, but I have to do my thinking while I follow my plow, and while my mule eats a bite and rests a little I will put a few of my thoughts on paper.

I see that you publish a great many things against the Alliance without a word of comment, and never publish anything in favor of the Alliance only by request, and then try to kill its force by comment. And further, do you really believe that the government could own and control the railroads and telegraph systems under a republican form of government? If you do you are sadly mistaken. The only way it could be done would be by confiscation. These (government officials) could place us under military law then garrison all our cities and railroad centres with a regular standing army or we can burn up our constitution and establish a monarchy. Either one of these plans gives them the same right to seize your farm, horse, cow or ox. You know these cannot, under our present system of government, force these men to sell out. Now don't forget to tell me how much pure (?) Jeffersonian principle you have here.

Now let us see about that cotton you sold at 12 1/2 cents (in your address) and make that matter a little plainer. You have 1000 lbs. lint cotton and I have 1000 lbs. This at 10 cents per lb. represents one hundred dollars each. Now we decide that we must have some money. You take your cotton to the warehouse and deposit one hundred dollars worth as security for the loan of eighty dollars. I take mine and sell it same day and get one hundred dollars cash. I loan out twenty dollars at 8 per cent, and use $80. Now you are paying interest on your own money, you are paying storage and you are suffering a loss in weight. These government employees must be paid and the farmers must do the dancing. Now you talk about putting more money in circulation. Your plan has put out $80 while mine has put out $100. You will never see your other $20, while in a few years I will have a respectable bank account. Now don't fail to show your true (?) Jeffersonian principle in this. Did you know that Congress has no power to levy a direct tax on the people of our State and the limit of taxation is fixed by our State constitution? Now how are you going to raise money to build your warehouses? When the last Democratic Administration passed from power it left in the treasury $130,000,000. Now every dollar of it is gone, and on the 1st of Sept. the government will be due $32,000,000 of bonds and it is said Secretary Foster is trying to borrow the money. Now so far as state legislation goes, the laboring people are better provided for than any other class. To prove this examine the code. The mechanic has a lien on all his work. You can make a bill with your merchant, doctor or lawyer, and if he does not bind you up in a mortgage or waive note you can dodge behind the home-stand or make your wife a free dealer. Now would you like a law that would give the doctor a lien on his patient? You patch up a wagon or buggy and you have a mechanic's lien. The doctor patches up his patients, the merchant sell them goods and groceries and yet they are left out in the cold unless the merchant can get in as landlord. The merchant, the lawyer and doctor are the hardest workers we have except mechanics. What could you do with goods you go to the merchant; when you get sick you send for the doctor. You will not accept a deed to a piece of land until it is passed on by a lawyer. I learned his trade by close application and hard work. His profession is just as honorable as yours. You have a bar in your county of the doctor and merchants of old Calhoun are an honor to her and to the State. Now sir, the standpoint from which I speak is justice and an everlasting principle that merit shall have its reward.

We cannot do without these men.

LETTER FROM FARMER STEPHENS.

COLVIN'S GAP, ALA., June 5, '91.

ED. REPUBLICAN:—Bill Arp has time to sit down and ruminate, but I have to do my thinking while I follow my plow, and while my mule eats a bite and rests a little I will put a few of my thoughts on paper.

I see that you publish a great many things against the Alliance without a word of comment, and never publish anything in favor of the Alliance only by request, and then try to kill its force by comment. Now let us see about that cotton you sold at 12 1/2 cents (in your address) and make that matter a little plainer. You have 1000 lbs. lint cotton and I have 1000 lbs. Now sir, the standpoint from which I speak is justice and an everlasting principle that merit shall have its reward.

N. J. STEPHENS.

Let us bid them God speed in the profession they have chosen. Now there is one more class or profession that I have purposely left out until now, because if there is any one class of professional men that deserve our everlasting gratitude more than another, it is our newspaper men. They are a power in our land for good, and ought to receive our hearty support. The people of Aniston ought to build a monument to the memory of Milton A. Smith, of the Hot Blast; Jacksonville and Talladega ought to build one for L. W. Grant and Jno. C. Williams of the REPUBLICAN and Mountain Home. Of course there are others that we could mention. The State is full of them and I speak of these three men in order to call your attention to the patriotic zeal of these gentlemen. They have labored unceasingly and untiringly for the public good. Instead of appreciating these men in their noble efforts, some small demagogue in your order tell them they are not eligible to promotion or participation in public affairs unless they will support the ridiculous demands made at St. Louis and Ocala. There is pure (?) Jeffersonian principles here, in a horn. Did Jefferson ever belong to a secret political organization? Did he? Can't you see that tariff reform is what we want? Can't you see that if Europe could exchange her products for our cotton that it would get up competition with our home market and the demand would soon control the price? Do you remember what cotton sold for just after the war? If I am not mistaken, it was about 40 cents per lb. We have an over production in cotton now and the demand has nothing to do in regulating the price. Have you ever investigated the character or politics of the men who sired the St. Louis resolutions? Would you believe me if I was to tell you that it was a Republican trick to divide the Democratic party and let Harrison and his pets in again? They fixed up a batch of demands that they knew no party on earth would endorse and that would give them the excuse they have used. The People's Party and the Republican party will fuse on the national ticket. They don't hope to make the Republican party stronger, but the Democracy weaker. Hope makes a good breakfast but a sorry supper. Now if you will quit nursing this Republican baby and stick to the nominees of the great old Democracy we will soon have a Democratic President and we will start out with hope for breakfast and tariff reform for supper and we will join hands around the American eagle and sing God save our farmers, merchants, lawyers, doctors and editors and everybody else; for it takes us all cemented together as brothers to make a happy people and to sustain the noble legacy bequeathed by our fathers a government of the people by the people and for the people. I was in Talladega a few days ago and several men that I talked with seem to think that L. W. Grant, of Calhoun, will be our representative in congress, from the Fourth District. So note it be. In honoring him, we will do honor to our district.

A. J. PITTS.

Selma Mirror, which was recently elected the Alliance organ for this, the fourth Congressional district, at one time advocated the sub-treasury bill, and criticised Senator Pugh for opposing it. But the eyes of the Mirror have been opened, and it now does not believe the Alliance should insist on the bill. The Mirror quotes the following from the Washington Post as the basis of its conclusion: "For the next two years our government will spend annually more than $500,000,000."

"To pay one year's expenses of the government it will take nearly the combined wheat and oat crop. Our annual output of gold, silver, copper, iron, coal, petroleum and lead will not foot our tax bill for twelve months."

"Nor can we do it with a year's product of cotton, wool, rye, barley, wheat, potatoes and tobacco." "The combined capitalization of our national banks is $599,000,000. One year's taxes will nearly swallow it up."

"Now, all this is federal tax. We have also to pay city, county and state taxes." "We pretend to be a nation of plain people, with no aristocracy, no princes, no standing army, and no expensive frills, and yet our taxes are more enormous than those of Austria, Germany or Great Britain." "When we calmly consider these facts and figures it must be admitted aghast. But such evils always lead to a reaction. The people will be forced by stern necessity to demand reform, or revolution, and in a country like ours such a state of public sentiment is bound to crystallize into reform."

Commenting on this the Mirror says: "In view of such facts as these, the Mirror insists that the first thing to be done is to elect members who will pledge themselves to stop this terrible drain on the resources of the people, and leave the money where it belongs—in the hands of the people. The government is the agent of the people—not their master—and when authority as to swamp the country in goods so far exceeds the demand for a radical revolution, it is time to throw of those who have been entrusted with the administration of affairs."

At Leeds W. A. Morrison and his family started out in a wagon before day to visit relatives in the country. They had proceeded only a short distance when the mule ran away, throwing them out. The little baby in its mother's arms was crushed to death.

The Republican.

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1891.

Having returned to their allegiance to the Republican party, Kansas Alliance men express thereby a determination to adhere to the Republican party platform. That platform does not and will not embrace the Ocala demands. The People's Party, lately formed at Cincinnati, adopted the Ocala demands as part of its platform, and yet the Kansas Alliance men are formally and officially announcing that they will not go into that party. On the contrary they announce a purpose to return to the Republican party, whose platform does not embrace those demands. It follows, consequently, that Kansas Alliance men are abandoning the Ocala demands. They will be found voting for men put out by and representing the principles of the Republican party. These principles are mainly embodied in the McKinley high tariff bill, force bills and negro supremacy in the South. This proves that they were never sincere in their movement and that they originated those demands to deceive and divide and destroy the South. When they see the Southern people are not going to be caught in the trap, they throw off the mask and show themselves up for what they have been all along—South-hating Radicals. It is the same way in Ohio. There the Alliance distinctly refused to go into a separate party movement. On the contrary they are assisting, as we write, in the nomination of McKinley, the author of the late infamous tariff bill, to be governor of Ohio, and there is great rejoicing in the old party of plunder, and McKinley says he will be elected and that if he is elected boys of today will be voters before that law will be repealed. In a speech before the Ohio Republican convention Tuesday he encoined the advocates of tariff reform as "the late Southern Confederacy" and vociferous applause.

Meantime Southern Alliance papers are belittling the tariff issue and whooping up the Ocala demands. The enemy are getting together on the Republican platform, while Southern Democrats are being divided on the Ocala demands for government loans and railroad ownership by the government—two planks inserted at St. Louis by these Western Radicals and which they have abandoned in their return to the Radical party. But Southern white men will soon see this and refuse to be divided. They too will unite and it will be upon the platform of the old Democratic party, and in 1892 that party will win a grand victory, and peace and joy and plenty will come to the South to stay. Meantime let the Southern people beware of false teachers. No good can come to them from the abandonment of the line of battle formed by the Democratic party. Only defeat and disaster can come from such a course. It takes a united South to accomplish anything good for the South. There should be no lines drawn between Southern Democrats. Democrats who are Alliance men and Democrats who are not Alliance men should meet in convention and at the polls with fraternal regard and in perfect fellowship, neither seeking advantage over the other, but both patriotically uniting to put the best men in office and to promulgate such principles only as will redound to the honor and glory of their country.

Yes, "Bailey is on the field and sees every move." He may see "ninety per cent. of our farms under mortgage, the laboring class growing poorer every day; our wives filling premature graves from overwork and anxiety" &c., &c., but if he does, he sees it on the blizzard-swept and fire-scorched plains of the great west and not in the southern states. The southern people are in ten-fold better condition than they were at the close of the war. What this country particularly needs at this time is something of the indomitable courage and spirit of those old confederate soldiers who returned from the wars to find their country a desolate wilderness, but who, scorning the bounty of government, and relying upon the strength of their own right arms and their noble courage, wrought the marvellous change we see to-day. From the poorest country on earth in 1865, under the touch of these noble men, the south has become the richest and most envied of all. If the old confederate soldiers could have returned to conditions as they exist to-day, they would have thought themselves in paradise. We can make it better yet, especially when the Democratic party has lifted from the people the heavy hand of the government tax gatherer. But we can't do it by crying and whining like whipped children. We must work with patience and patriotism.

Dallas county Alliance lately asked the County Democratic Executive Committee to abandon the primary election system and go back to the convention system. The committee met and considered the matter and decided that, the primary system having been adopted by vote of a large majority of the Democratic voters of Dallas, the committee had no right to change the plan. In this opinion the committee, both from city and country, was unanimous.

In last week's issue Mr. Stephens and friends had about succeeded in closing the bloody chasm. This week's issue contains the melancholy intelligence that Kansas Alliance men have decided to reopen it.

Bad Advice.

Sam Slim's advice to Alliance men to "capture" the Democratic Conventions, from the beat conventions up, is calculated to work injury to the Alliance; though we do not suppose he offers it for such a purpose. Such a course would necessarily exclude many farmers and others in the country, who do not belong to the order, from any participation whatever in the selection of county officers. It would beget great bitterness of feeling against the Alliance and would lead to the defeat of some worthy Alliance men who will be candidates for office and whose fitness for position points them out for election.

On a full vote there are six thousand voters in Calhoun. It is well known that the Alliance does not contain anything like a majority of those voters.

If the Alliance should attempt to "capture" the county convention and fail, it would be fatal to Alliance men who would have to go before that convention.

If the men in the country who do not belong to the Alliance should be not allowed their proportionate representation in the best delegations to the county convention, they would appeal to that convention to refuse to make nominations and thus compel candidates to go before the people so that they, the ostracised ones, could have the privilege of participating in the selection of their county officers; and their appeal would be heeded, no matter which side controlled the convention; for the delegates not members of the order, together with the Alliance men who would be in favor of fair play and still other Alliance men in the convention who would think a free race more favorable for their friends, could easily adjourn the convention without nominations. Then the men who had been ostracised in their boats would take their revenge upon the candidates in whose interest their boats had been "captured" and thus would begin a bitter war. If a straight Alliance and Anti-Alliance fight should thus get up in the county, it could have only one termination. The stronger side would win. The better plan for us all is to forget, when it comes to political action, that we are anything but Democrats. Let us meet in convention in peace and harmony, applying no test to men who seek the favor of the party except that time-honored Democratic test: "Is he honest; is he capable; is he faithful to the constitution."

There are Alliance men in the county who should like to see nominated for and elected to county office. There are others who are not members of the order whom we should like to see similarly honored. There should be no line of division, even if it be concealed, between Democrats in Calhoun. We all stand or fall together. Perfect good faith and fair play between Democrats in the county is the only thing that can preserve harmony and promote the general welfare. Let no Democrats plot to exclude any other Democrat, however humble he may be, from full participation in the selection of the men who are to rule over him. It is his birthright. It would be undemocratic to deny him his privilege.

Democrats in this county and elsewhere in the south who have lately manifested so much love for the Kansas Republicans who belong to the Alliance, and who have been willing to even sacrifice southern interests in order to "relieve" them, will have their ardor somewhat chilled when they read that Kansas Alliance men are returning to the fold of the Radical party to hereafter put in their time in trying to place "black beads on white necks." Having failed to entrap Southern Democrats into a movement designed to divide and defeat them, they can no longer conceal the hatred they have all along felt toward the South, notwithstanding their hallowed words. People will realize after awhile that the advice of this paper to "go slow" was good advice.

Gov. Tilman, of South Carolina, and lecturer Ben Terrell have agreed to discuss the Sub-Treasury bill before South Carolina Alliance men Tilman against it and Terrell for it.

Republican leaders in Alabama declare a purpose to contest every Congressional District in the State and say they will carry four out of nine. They will not do it, if Democrats remain united.

A SAD DEATH.

Hon James N. Gilechrist Commits Suicide.

Hon. Jas. N. Gilechrist member of the legislature from Montgomery committed suicide in his room at the Merchants' Hotel in Montgomery last night, having taken laudanum to destroy his life.

Mr. Gilechrist was one of the brightest young men in the State and was at the time of his death a member of the Alabama legislature. He had the falling so common to brilliant minds, that of strong drink, and his mastery this habit had gained over him led up to the tragedy which robbed him of his life.

In his letter to his father, he bade his father an affectionate good-bye and left a message for another friend. He gave as his reason for his act that he preferred death to the life he was leading. He had struggled in vain to quit drinking and the habit grew on him.—Anniston News.

LETTER FROM SAM SLIM.

OXFORD, ALA., June 16, 1891.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—Just let me say; well, well, well, I've been reading what some of the shining lights of the Calhoun county Alliance have to say of politics and political oppression, sub-treasury bill, Ocala and St. Louis platforms, and the political baby born at Cincinnati, and christened, The People's Party. And I can but exclaim, "when doctors disagree who can decide?"

If the whole Democratic party for the last thirty years, by diligent watching, hand to hand fighting, and using every conceivable tactics, has been only able to hold the Republican force check, sufficient to prevent the force bill whereby they would have made their power in the land perpetual; and if after the most severe fight on record, McKinley got his tariff bill through, which causes every Alliance man in these United States to pay from 20 to 50 per cent. more for his store clothes than he ought to pay; I say, if the whole Democratic party, composed of doctors, merchants, lawyers, mechanics, farmers and all could only worry and aggravate the Republican beast, what in the name of reason will that illegitimate, premature, seven months stripping, the People's Party be able to accomplish? That old Republican beast is just grinning more when he reads such productions as have come out in the REPUBLICAN lately, thinking if he can just get the tough old Democratic party out of the way, what nice steak, roast and tenderloin he will make of the young fat, juicy People's party.

One of the writers claims that the Alliance doctrine is regular Jeffersonian. Gewillians! What would General Jackson say to such stuff. Another, though having been a life-long Democrat has fallen from grace and classes Democrats and Republicans all together as robbers of the farmers. Another writes while his mule eats, and very unjustly accuses the REPUBLICAN of partiality, and being opposed to the Alliance. The REPUBLICAN instead of advising the farmers of the country to "keep their mouths shut till the nominations were made, and then vote for the nominee," has always advocated their attendance on their best meeting and then county meeting, and sticking in their lip and helping to say who should be nominated. Now I don't particularly claim to be a farmer. However, I've got 3½ acres of land on which I raise a crop of oats every year, and afterwards cut and cure enough hay to feed a horse and cow the year round. I haven't bought a pound of hay for years, and as I am of the opinion that some of the Alliance can't beat that much, I'll offer a little advice: Fight your fight inside the Democratic party. Rally to the beat meetings, capture them, then capture the county, congressional, and state conventions. If you can't capture the party while you are a part of it you can't defeat it by slapping off from it. There are thousands of Alliance men who will stand shoulder to shoulder in a Democratic convention and do their best to secure through it good for the farmers, whom you could no more force to vote for a Peoples Party man or an independent against a Democratic nominee than you could force to leave his wife and children. Some folks may pray over it and be willing to quit the old party, but you'll find more that wouldn't pray at all if there was danger of it causing them to leave the Democratic ranks and take up with something else. Right inside the Democratic party is the place for the Southern Alliance to assert their rights. Right there and in no other can you get equal rights to all special privileges to none. The Northwestern Alliance are made up of Republicans. They have Republican views and interests and intentions, and one of their Republican intentions is to pull the wool over the eyes of the Southern Alliance men with sub-treasury and government control of railroads and telegraph lines on the plea of making money plentiful. The best way to get money is to work for it. Every Alliance in the whole country will be dead and forgotten before the government loans anybody money at 2 per cent. Mind what I tell you.

SAM SLIM.

HE WILL BE THERE.

The demagogue who would sell his birthright for a mess of pottage is the man who is the quickest to cry out corruption on the part of those who oppress him. In his estimation the press that he cannot use is always subsidized, the opposition is in the pay of some special interest and the man who is not on his side cannot possibly be actuated by honest and patriotic motives. The man who is himself corrupt has no confidence in the honesty of others and the unfortunate part of it is that he too often succeeds in imposing upon the credulity of those who cannot penetrate his mask. The venomous but plausible demagogue is more dangerous than a plague. When the campaign opens he will nearly always be found upon the hustings and he will nearly always command an audience.—Gadsden Times.

The Ohio Republican convention which is to meet Tuesday will be the great political event of the week. All of the big guns of the party in the Buckeye State will be there. McKinley will be the nominee for Governor, of course, but a lively fight is expected over the Lieutenant Governorship, and there may become difficult about passing a resolution endorsing Senator Sherman. The Republicans wish to start their campaign in Ohio off with a rush this year, as the life of the party largely depends on their carrying the State.—Age-Herald.

ALABAMA POLITICS.

Colonel Forney Talks About the Alliance and Other Matters.

Washington, June 11.—Representative Forney of Alabama is in the city. He is on his way home from Baltimore where Mrs. Forney will remain two or three weeks.

When asked about the political situation in Alabama, Representative Forney said:

We have a strong alliance following there, and its leaders think that they can swallow the Democratic party. In other words, being Democrats themselves, they want the Democratic party to adopt their views, so that the straight outs and the alliance men can work together. I do not believe, however, that the western leaders of the movement will agree to this. They will ask the alliance men in Alabama to form a third party, in which case I am sure that the latter will come back to the Democratic ranks. As for the presidency, there would be unanimity for Cleveland if it were not for his position on the silver question. I think this issue will be settled before the meeting of the nominating convention. If it is not to be Cleveland I do not care who it will be. In our state we regard the tariff question as uppermost, and it will be the issue in our campaign.

"Is the protection idea making headway in Alabama?"

"I do not think it is. There are, of course some protectionists in the state, but not enough to make them a factor. We have the raw material right at hand and make only pig iron. If we manufactured edged tools, the sentiment might be more widespread. As it is, the furnaces at Jenifer, twenty miles from where I live, export charcoal iron to England. This may seem strange, but it is true. The iron is of a particular grade, and can be mined, cast into pigs and shipped across to England and cheaper than it can be made in that country. The furnace is in the hands of an English syndicate. We are now making iron cheaper than it is made in Pennsylvania."

The Sub-Treasury Scheme.

The Memphis Commercial has this to say on the sub-treasury scheme: "The sub-treasury scheme is the one particularly distinctive plank in the platform of the People's Party, and it is not a plank in the platform of the Democratic Party, nor is it ever likely to be. For, so far as it has been discussed by public men and newspapers, the Democrats have almost uniformly been in opposition to it. No Democrat who keeps in view the fundamental principles of the Democratic Party as they were formulated by Thomas Jefferson can consistently say that he is for the sub-treasury scheme. It is in the nature of protection and to that Democracy is opposed. It is in the nature of class legislation and to that Democracy is opposed. It would increase the public expenses and consequently public taxation and to that, being pledged to economy, the Democratic party is opposed. It would break up the admirable system of banking by which the country is prospering, and to that the Democratic party is opposed. It would carry ruin to thousands of honest, enterprising merchants, and to that the Democratic party is opposed. It would disorganize business generally and sow the seeds of widespread ruin, and to that the Democratic party is opposed. And, finally, it would call upon all classes the heavy hand of an oppressive paternalism, and to that every sound, healthy Democrat is opposed."

THE DEADLY RECORD.

Brought Out to Combat Barksdale on the Sub-Treasury.

JACKSON, MISS., June 13.—The Houston Free South has been digging up the record of Hon. E. Barksdale, who is running for the United States Senate as a democrat on the Ocala platform. In its last issue it publishes an editorial from the Jackson Clarion of 1879, when Barksdale was editor, which takes strong grounds against the government's loaning money to citizens. The following is one of the most striking paragraphs from the editorial.

"But the scheme to convert the government into a great establishment for loaning money on mortgage or other securities is the most stupendous centralizing project that has been conceived by the most extreme consolidationist. It would be a stretch of the general-welfare clause which the Alexander Hamilton school of politicians, in their wildest vision, never dreamed of. The power of corruption that it would build up, the swarms of office holders and pensioners that it would inflict upon the country is a picture which the imagination grows weary in attempting to paint."

A TABLADEGA justice has decided that the issuing of store checks in payment of wages is a criminal offense against the laws of the State of Alabama and has bound a man over to the grand jury for doing it. It promises to be a "cause celebre," as it will be tested in the higher courts.

TISDALE

ELECTED COLONEL OF THE THIRD REGIMENT.

And Our Own Ed. Caldwell Comes Under the String in the Race for Lieutenant Colonel.

The election of officers for the Third Regiment took place at the encampment in Mobile this forenoon. W. H. Tisdale, of Selma, was elected Colonel.

Capt. Ed. G. Caldwell, of the Anniston Rifles, was elected Lieutenant Colonel, running nine votes ahead of his ticket.

L. H. Fleming was chosen Major. The election of Capt. Caldwell to the position of Lieutenant Colonel is a compliment grateful to Annistonians and one most worthily bestowed—one too that could not have fallen upon a man with more of the elements of popularity in his make up.—Anniston News.

HE WASN'T IN IT.

They built a fine church at his very door—He wasn't in it; They brought him a scheme for relieving the poor—He wasn't in it; Let them work for themselves as he had done—They wouldn't ask help of any one if they hadn't wasted each golden minute—He wasn't in it; So he passed the door with haughty tread—He wasn't in it; And he scorned the good with virtuous head—He wasn't in it; When men in the halls of virtue met He saw their goodness without regret; Too high the mark for him to win it—He wasn't in it; A carriage crept down the street one day—He was in it; The funeral trainings made a display—He was in it; St. Peter received him with hook and bell; "My friend you have purchased a ticket to—well, Your elevator goes down in a minute." He was in it.

NEW YORK ALLIANCE

Opposed to the Sub-Treasury and a Third Party.

The Alliance men of New York do not believe in the third party, nor do they believe in the heretical sub-treasury scheme. They believe in "Equal rights for all and special privileges for none," as the Alliance declaration of principles sets forth and are opposed to class legislation, such as the sub-treasury scheme is. These New York farmers believe that good sense would dictate that the best work for the interests of the farmers and others can be accomplished through existing parties and by adhering strictly to principles based upon a sound platform, not made up of extreme, unreasonable and untenable planks, but rather in the line of consistency, avoiding vagaries, wild political schemes and unjust demands, and calling for nothing but what a reasonable body of men would grant and endorse. "We cannot afford," they say, to endorse the action of the Alliance of the South and West. Some of the principles embodied in their platform, it is true, are good; but their exactions in many respects are extreme, dangerous and not in accordance with wisdom, nor in harmony with a policy for the benefit of the farmers or the masses of the people."

TARIFF ON BEES.

Queens Need Pay no Duties at the Custom House.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding has decided that queen bees are entitled to entry free of duty under the tariff provision for animals especially imported for breeding purposes, notwithstanding the requirement of that provision for a certificate of pedigree, showing that pure breed can possibly be complied with in their case. This is in harmony with the practice under the present tariff of assessing duty on queen bees at the rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem, under the provision for animals not otherwise provided for.

The present ruling is based on representations that these bees are never imported for other than breeding purposes; that they are always of superior breed, adapted to improve the stock in this country and that it is impracticable from the nature of the case to keep books of the registry of the breed of bees. A singular fact about the case is that these bees are generally imported through the mail, and that this can be done legally only in the event of their being exempt from duty.

ALABAMA EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

Decennial Meeting of Teachers, East Lake, July 1, 2, 3, 4, 1901.

The tenth annual meeting of the Alabama Educational Association will be held at East Lake, Ala., July 1, 2 and 3, 1901. This meeting promises to eclipse in character and attendance the record of any similar association ever held in the State. During the past decade the educational progress of Alabama has been most remarkable; in proportion to the State's wealth and population, it is doubtful if any other State in the Union can show equal progress in all elements of educational growth. The teaching fraternity have progressed so rapidly in number and character that to-day the Alabama Educational Association, as a body, is at once the strongest and most numerous professional organization in the State—an organization of which any teacher should be proud.

The Decennial Meeting of the Association at East Lake will be especially interesting, not only to teachers, but to all who are interested in the educational topics of the day. County and township Superintendents, members of city and county Boards of Education and Trustees of public and private institutions should attend this great meeting of educators, and inform themselves upon those great problems of public duty, the solution of which the public has placed in their hands.

Educational sentiment among the people is advancing; the masses naturally look to those officially connected with educational work for information and wise leadership. Already in some communities the people will not retain a teacher who never attends an Educational Association. This sentiment is growing, and it is right. The teachers in Alabama who never attend an Association of teachers ought to be desposed. The same sentiment is growing with special reference to those entrusted by the people with the official management of the schools and colleges of the State.

No lovelier spot than East Lake could have been selected; accessible to Birmingham, it offers many attractions to the teachers of the State. Special reduced rates will be given by the railroads, and accommodations will be provided at exceedingly reasonable rates, either in Birmingham or at East Lake. For particulars and special information teachers should address the secretary, Prof. G. W. Macon, or Prof. A. D. Smith, chairman committee on entertainment, East Lake, Ala.

A STORY OF MONEY.

How a Confederate Soldier Disposed of His Pay.

An ex-confederate soldier who is a resident of this city, told an Age-Herald reporter a unique tale ancient confederate bills. Said he:

"I was paid for my time spent in Camp Douglass prison after I was exchanged and after we had surrendered, when Mr. Davis had been captured. I believe that was all the money I received from the confederate government subsequent to my leaving Virginia and joining Morgan's command. The amount I received was $340 in $20 bills.

"Of course they were useless, but I kept them and as went soon after to Baltimore, I took them with me, and while we were in Baltimore, three of them and myself called on some young lady friends, and lo! when we presented ourselves at the door the suave negro boy who opened it asked for our cards.

"Cards! Why, we had not heard of such a thing for four years, and we laughed. But an idea struck me. I pulled out those $20-confederate bills and each of us wrote our names on one and sent them up.

"Of course it took, and after that none of the girls would receive a card from a gentleman unless it was a confederate bill. Many of them kept them and made them into fans, pasting them on the sticks so that when the fan was opened only the battle scenes were shown. And that's the way my pay for service in the confederate army went."—Age-Herald.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

WILL JOIN THE NEW PARTY.

That is What the President Says Southern Alliance Men Will do.

RALPH, N. C., June 2.—The state alliance organ, The Progress-Farmer, owned by L. E. Polk, said editorially in its issue today:

The question, what will the Alliance do with the new party? is on the lips of tens of thousands anxious people today. Well it ought not to take wisdom to answer that question. The new party has adopted the alliance demands into its platform. Does any one suppose intelligent alliance men will vote against a party that adopts those demands, and in favor of a party that not only fails to adopt, but resists those demands? The western alliance states have already gone into the new party. Will not the necessity for alliance unity force the other alliance States to go into the new party also? We see no way to prevent the new party from sweeping the country, except the simple one of cheerfully conceding to the people every one of their just demands. If the alliance men are to be blamed for giving in to the third party, then the hungry child can be blamed for going to some one who can and will furnish him food.

Gentlemen of the old parties, if the time comes when your ranks shall be broken, your leaders overthrown and your heritage taken from you, do not blame the alliance for your ruin. The people, represented by the Farmers' Alliance, have petitioned and begged and pleaded and prayed for relief all these years; and haughty minions of political power have spurned both them and their petitions and prayers. Do not blame them for your overthrow, but blame your own blind and miserable folly.

FOUND HIS FATHER DEAD.

Horrible Discovery by a Thirteen Year Old Boy.

The following story comes from Rockford through the Montgomery Advertiser:

News reached the city last night of the killing of Peyton Parker. It seems that the deceased left his home, about six miles west of Rockford, intending to go to the black-smith shop, but failed to return last night.

His family, however, did not institute any search, evidently thinking he had either gone to town or to some neighbor's house.

About 3 o'clock today a son of the deceased about 13 years old, on his way to the mill, was horrified to find the dead body of his father in his path with a bullet hole through his temple.

At present there seems to be no clue to the perpetrator, and a coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow. The deceased was about 40 years old and leaves a widow and five children.

His body was found within a short distance from the spot where his father was shot and killed in 1883.

A Chihuahua, Mex., dispatch says: For several days the neighbors of Jesus Martinez, a Mexican living in the suburbs of this city, have noticed an unusual stillness around his residence and today a strange stench emanating from the Martinez house led them to make an investigation. On entering the house a ghastly sight met their gaze. Martinez had murdered his wife and six children. Cut their bodies to pieces and salted them down like beef in the corner of a room. When they entered Martinez was standing in the middle of the floor, coolly sucking the blood from the arm of one of the children. The news of the horrible butchery soon spread and in a few moments a mob of 2,000 Mexicans were angrily discussing the affair. The mob seized Martinez, dragged him into the street and before the police could interfere literally tore him to pieces.

In Woman's Clothes.

BIRMINGHAM, June 6.—A negro man, disguised in woman's clothes, was arrested here this afternoon on suspicion of being a man wanted for murder in New Orleans. He gave the name of Mary Jimmie Thomas, and hired to J. L. Lockwood here as a female cook some months ago. Thomas denies the crime, but admitted he had been in New Orleans. He says he has worn woman's clothes all his life and was arrested for his crime in Montgomery but was released. He fits exactly the description of the party wanted.

Federal Finance.

The Democratic Congress, which the people have elected by an uprising that was in the nature of a revolution, will not assemble in Washington any too soon for the work of protecting the treasury from the reckless robbery of the Republican party and to save the country from utter bankruptcy. The financial methods of the party in power have brought the Treasury into a condition of collapse, and the administration is now confronted by the apprehension that the Government may not be able to meet its obligations. It is unfortunate to meet it at a time, it is more than unfortunate—it is a crisis, that President Harrison has placed the Treasury in the hands of a politician, instead of calling to his head a successful financier who commanded the confidence of the country. Secretary Foster's course, so far, has been a juggle. He has juggled with the pension, juggling with the desperate in the effort to avoid serious financial disaster. In the effort it will be able to struggle through till a Democratic Congress can right matters, is doubtful, but, if it does, the country will have reason to be thankful.—Columbian Engineer.

It is stated that many white Alliance men of the West will attend the State convention of the Georgia colored Alliance. The People's Party is after the negro vote.—Columbian Engineer-Sun.

TESTIMONIAL.

Piedmont, Ala., May 18, 1887.

My brother, B. F. Savage, of Leadon, Ala., has been afflicted with a bad case of liver trouble, all his life, but able to work till about five years ago; the disease then broke out in great rashes all over his body, inside his mouth and on his tongue, so that he could not eat or drink, and he was unable to get out of his bed. He was treated by all the doctors of this section of country for two years, and also by Dr. W. F. Westmoreland, of Alabama, which only held the disease in check, without any prospect of cure, and he was finally taken to the hospital in this city, where he lay in his room for three months, so that he was unable to get out of his bed. NASHVILLE SAVINGS BANK

Has Suspended Payment—One of the Oldest in That City.

NASHVILLE, June 23.—The door of the Nashville Savings bank, of which Julius Sax is president and Max Sax, cashier, has closed, and the pavement has been crowded with excited depositors.

The suspension was quite a surprise to the public at large, and immediately a number of prominent gentlemen, including bankers, called and volunteered assistance, which, however, was declined.

Officers of the bank have been engaged in making a statement of assets and liabilities for the assignment, which will be made at once.

It is estimated that the nominal assets are about $300,000, with liabilities about the same, and it is stated that the depositors' account is above $200,000. James M. Ford will be assigned.

The failure was brought about by poor collection, and largely secured by loans on account of the tight money market.

The Messrs. Sax have been engaged in business here since 1863, when they began as brokers. In 1867 they organized the Nashville Savings bank, with a capital stock of $25,000. They are personally very popular men, and the money market has never been so close here but what a reasonable loan could be negotiated at Sax's. They had the confidence of everybody. Among their depositors they number nearly all the largest citizens of Nashville, and many of the surrounding towns. They did the largest transcontinental business of any bank in the city and had correspondents in all the European capitals.

That they were embarrassed has been known in banking circles for some time. Last fall at one time they owed $700,000 in New York alone. The largest part of their indebtedness is in New York city, and largely secured by collateral. They express hope of being able to pay dollar for dollar.

Sax's name was a synonym for solidity, and every Jew in Nashville that had a dollar saved had it on deposit with him. Business men and professional men, wage earners and school teachers—all banked with him, and many of them had their all on deposit. It is understood that some of the large notes held by the bank are made by Nashville men who have recently suffered financial reverses, but confidence is still placed in the bank, and it will be able to pay out.

All the officers of the bank are inaccessible, and will be until the assignment is made.

He was thrown from his seat, alighting in the open furrow ahead of the plow, and was completely buried from sight as he lay under the plow. Luckily some men saw the accident, and running dug the boy out. He was not seriously hurt.

James J. O'Kelly, William Richmond, M. P. and Henry Harrison, M. P., addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of Irish-Americans at Central Music hall in Chicago. Every reference to Ireland was loudly cheered. "Thunderous applause" was given to the speakers. The meeting was held at the residence of Mr. O'Kelly, it read: "Parnell will visit Chicago in the autumn."

A special to the Philadelphia Ledger from Cape May Point says President Harrison, Mrs. William and Mrs. Ward attended the Sunday morning service at the Beadle Memorial Presbyterian church. Mrs. Harrison did not attend church, but spent the morning looking after the children who were on the beach with their nurses. In the afternoon a heavy rain storm kept the presidential family in doors.

Byron Landon, who fell after killing Robert Hill in a fight at Hudson lake at La Porte, Ind., was captured near the Michigan line by Deputy Sheriff McCormick, and is now in jail. A woman who was riding with Landon caused the fight which led to Hill's death. Landon is a tough character, and comes from a bad stock, his father having murdered a man a number of years ago.

At Ottawa, Owen P. Murphy was one of the witnesses heard by the preliminary investigation into the charge of corruption preferred against Thomas McGreevy, M. P., in obtaining government contracts for Murphy's firm, McGreevy's contract for being a member of the firm. Murphy testified that in three years his firm gave $10,000 in donations to politicians, go-betweens and for campaign purposes.

Levine was seen with her one night about Jan. 1 and next morning she was found dead in bed.

SEVEN MEN SHOT DOWN.

An Insurrection at Cole City Convict Camp in Tennessee.

ATLANTA, June 23.—There has been an insurrection at Cole City convict camp. Seven men were shot down, and at least accounts' four were dead and two were lying.

The news came in the shape of a telegram to Principal Keeper Jones of the penitentiary.

He was sick at home, so the message was handed to Governor Northen.

He read:

WIRTSBURG, Tenn., June 22. George H. Jones, Principal Keeper Penitentiary:

"Three convicts have escaped at Cole City. Two were killed and two were mortally wounded. Two guards killed. One boss seriously wounded."

O. REESE.

The governor was considerably surprised on reading the message, as he spent Saturday at Cole City in company with Principal Keeper Jones.

The convicts seemed as contented as convicts could expect to be and no trouble was anticipated.

After reading the message the second time the governor laid it aside, remarking: "Those convicts are hard to manage. It's just like making a boy go to school against his will." That was all the governor said, and he could tell nothing more than the brief telegram which had been sent out by Superintendent Reese from Whiteside, Tenn., the nearest telegraph station.

The frowner mission was looked to be set the camp last Sunday, but for some reason the ladies did not go. Rev. Frank Joseph, the colored missionary to the convicts, however, did go and spend the day preaching to the inmates of the stockade. This is not the first time that trouble of this kind has occurred at Cole City.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Development in the Week Ending June 20.

CHATTANOOGA, June 23.—The report for the past week is a very favorable one. It shows a continuance of the increase in all branches of industrial development, and the fact that new industries are springing up in all the southern states, and that these signs of prosperity are not confined to a narrow area, is one worthy of particular notice.

The Tradesman, in its weekly review for the week ending June 20, reports 39 new industries, 15 enlargements, 5 new buildings, 9 new railroads, 2 belt roads, 1 extension and 1 street railroad.

Among the most important new industries established as reported to the Tradesman are the following: A steam bark mill at Elkton, Va.; boiler works at Wheeling, W. Va.; brick works at McArthur, Ga.; shipbuilding, Ky., and Staunton, Va.; a coal and coke company with $100,000 capital at Cooper's, W. Va.; and $50,000 cotton compress at Weatherford, Tex.; a cotton gin company at New York, Ky.; Basic City and Warrenton, Va.; Columbia, S. C.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Tallahassee, Fla.; the latter with $100,000 capital; a flouring mill at Millen, Tenn.; and 2500 Flat West, Va.; foundries and machine shops at Hartsells, Ala.; and Wytheville, Fla.; a furnace at Ivanhoe, Va.; gas companies at Dallas, Tex.; and Louisville, Ky.; and ice factories at Hot Springs, Ark., and New Bern, N. C. An iron and steel company is to be organized at Knoxville, Tenn.; machine works at Monroeville, W. Va.; and Stuttgart, Ark.; a mineral paint company at Florence, Ala.; oil mills and fertilizer works at Washington, La.; Snater's, N. C.; Fayetteville, N. C.; and Liberty Hill, Ga.; and an oil and gas company with $2,000,000 capital at San Antonio, Tex. Twelve phosphate mining companies are reported as organized in Florida; pipe works at New Braunfels, Tex.; water works at DeFtford, Tenn.; Shenandoah, Va.; and LaGrange, Tex.; and 24 wood working plants, two of which are in Alabama, four in Arkansas, one in Florida, two in Georgia, one in Kentucky, three in Louisiana, three in Mississippi, one each in North and South Carolina, four in Tennessee, one in Texas and one in Virginia.

A railroad depot at New Orleans, La., and an office building to cost $100,000 at Savannah, Ga., are also reported.

Bricks are being burned at Claiborne and Fort Valley, Ga.; Danville, Tenn.; Fayetteville and Newton, W. Va.; Georgetown, Tex.; Helena, Ark.; and Waterloo, S. C. Belt roads at Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Marietta, Ga., and a street railroad at Green Cove Springs, Fla.

A BATTLE ROYAL.

With Swords Between Coolies on the Village Green in Jamaica.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The steamship South Portland of the Wells Line, has arrived here from Jamaica ports.

Chief Mate J. B. Lowell told the following tale: On the afternoon of June 12 the Portland touched at Port Marie, Mate Lowell was sent on shore to get the mails. On his way to the postoffice he came across a crowd of blacks on the village green.

There must have been at least 500 of them, and when Mr. Lowell inquired what the row was about, they informed him that a battle royal was just about to begin.

Four coolies, all natives of the town, had become involved in a sort of Montague-Capulet controversy, and each of them had arrived at the conclusion that this planet generally was altogether too good a place to harbor the other three any longer.

So they mutually decided to fight to the death. In the center of the green an inclosure had been roped off, and inside of it, at each corner stood one of the four contestants. They were stripped to the waist, and each man grasped in his right hand a knife with a blade seven inches long.

For a moment the men stood glaring at each other, then the word was given and the fight began. It was a case of every man for himself with a vengeance.

Mate Lowell says that without any exception, it was the most fearful sight he ever saw. In five minutes it was all over. When the police arrived upon the scene three bodies, huddled almost beyond recognition, lay inside the ropes. The fourth man was so crazed by his wounds that before the police could lay hands on him he drove his own knife through his heart.

DEVASTATED BY A CLOUDBURST.

An Illinois Town Thrown Into a Panic by Too Much Water.

OTTAWA, Ill., June 20.—Utica, the busy little cement and brick manufacturing town, and the seat of many cozy and pretty homes, has been devastated by a cloudburst. The cloudburst broke just north of the town over a high bluff and came into the valley with a roar that created a panic and caused the inhabitants to rush before it and seek shelter upon high ground. In the space of a quarter of an hour the water rose six feet in the lowlands, and from one to three feet in dwellings and stores in the heart of town. Buildings were shaken up, and fences and outcrops carried away. Fortunately no lives were lost, and the water soon receded.

Not a dwelling or place of business escaped damage, and household goods to the value of many thousands of dollars were ruined. Beautiful lawns were spoiled, and sand and mud to the depth of several inches covered the floors and carpets of dwellings. In the manufacturing portion of the place great loss was sustained. The principal loss to this class falls on the Utica Firebrick company, whose fires were put out and the stock in the kilns ruined. The cement company also lost heavily. The losses probably aggregate $150,000.

BEATEN WITH A CLUB.

A Jealous Man Becomes Infuriated and Acts the Brute.

LIMA, O., June 20.—Ernest Geiser, aged about 40, and employed at the Solar refinery, has been living with his wife and four children, the oldest of whom is only 6, in a house in the south end of town. The refinery hands were in the habit of going to a well near the house for water, and very visit infuriated Geiser's jealousy. He consulted an attorney, wanting advice how to get clear of the woman. He said they had never been married, though they had lived together eight years, and he had four children by her.

Being told nothing could be done for him he went home very much exasperated, and proceeded to take out his spite upon the poor woman. She went home for awhile with a club, but he finally knocked her down and dragged her to the stable and beat her most brutally. She was almost dead when some passers by were attracted by the faint moans of a woman, and took her into the house and cared for her. The poor wife is in a terrible condition, but it is thought she will recover. Geiser has been arrested and lodged in jail.

KING FARO

Causes a Young Man's Downfall and a Sentence to the Pen.

HELENA, Mont., June 23.—J. F. Ryan, a young bookkeeper in the law office of a Council and Clayberg, pleaded guilty to his numerous forgeries and received a sentence of five years. Ryan pleaded in extenuation of his offense that he had never committed crime before, and asked the judge to be lenient, as he came from a bad family and hereditary tendency made it uphill work for him to be honest. Ryan's father, John Ryan, the sheriff of his county, had been convicted of a crime and had been in prison for a number of years. Ryan's mother, Mary Ryan, was also a convict, and had been in prison for a number of years. Ryan's father and mother were both convicted of crimes involving the use of force and violence. Ryan's father and mother were both convicted of crimes involving the use of force and violence.

AN ALABAMA BANK CLOSED DOWN.

BIRMINGHAM, June 23.—The Florence National bank of Florence, Ala., has closed its doors. The immediate cause is the spread of false reports, which caused a run on the bank. Some confusion seems to have resulted by reason of Flannigan, cashier of the Alabama Banking and Trust company, having been for a time also president of the Florence National bank. Its books showed $10,000 deposited in the Traders' National bank of Boston, but a draft on that bank for $4,000 went to protest. It developed that the $10,000 had been appropriated to paying certificates of deposit to the Alabama Banking and Trust company, on an order of Flannigan. The bank expects to resume again in a few days as soon as things are straightened out.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 23.—An interesting suit has just been decided at Mayville, DeKalb county, Miss. Hattie Gardner, housekeeper at the Union Depot hotel in this city, was the plaintiff. In 1888 G. C. Parrymore, a wealthy and childless widow of DeKalb county, who had known Miss Gardner for a number of years, made a verbal contract with her to the effect that if she would keep house for him and take care of him until his death, he would give her $5,000. The agreement was entered into by Miss Gardner and lived up to for fifteen months, when Parrymore died. The heirs would not pay the money and suit was instituted by Miss Gardner. The case was decided by the jury giving Miss Gardner a verdict for $5,000 and interest.

MURDER IN NORTH CAROLINA.

A White Man and a Negro Woman Murdered by Unknown Parties.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A special to The Post from Winston, N. C., says that two murders were committed in North Carolina. The parties killed were a white man named John Smith, a railroad bridge builder, and a colored married woman named Mary Gains, at whose house the killing took place, the white man having taken refuge there when pursued by three unknown men. William Walker, white, has been arrested on the charge of being implicated in the crime, but the two other white men connected with the affair have so far eluded arrest.

A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

Arrested on the Charge of Obtaining a Pension by Fraud.

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—Jacob Longbaugh, justice of the peace and well known as a politician in Pickaway county, was arrested there and brought to this city, charged with obtaining a pension by fraud. Longbaugh some years ago married Isabelle Arbuthnot, the widow of a deceased soldier, and at this instance she continued to draw a widow's pension, he as justice of the peace certifying to her papers. By this means she drew fraudulently several thousand dollars from the government. He gave bond in $1,500 for his appearance.

THE OLD CLOCK STRIKES.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., June 22.—Mrs. John Raymond, residing near St. Paul, Ind., was recently left a widow. On the day of her husband's death an old cord and weight clock that had not been keeping time for many years stopped. Nothing was thought of this, and Mrs. Raymond, after the funeral closed up her home and went with her son-in-law to stay a month. When she returned home she was surprised to find the clock striking the hour of 11. Now at certain hours of the night it is heard to strike the hour of 3, and as it has not run or has not been wound up for weeks, it is very mysterious. What the clock means no one has been able to find out.

THE SECRETARY'S SPEECH.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Secretary Foster, in his speech written for delivery at the Ohio Republican convention, paid particular attention to the silver question, and made a special point in regard to coinage, calling attention to the fact that after July 1 it will be discretionary with the secretary of the treasury whether silver coinage shall be continued or not. A great many suggestions have been made to the secretary of the treasury on this particular feature, indicating a strong sentiment against suspending silver coinage on the date named, and it is within the range of probability that coinage will be continued after July 1, for awhile at least.

Terrible Balloon Accident.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—A terrible balloon accident occurred near this city. A large balloon, belonging to Count A. Praxine, was being inflated with gas, when it escaped from the people who were holding it to the ground, and carried up four workmen who were in the car. The balloon rose rapidly to a great height and then burst. The bodies of the four unlucky workmen, after the explosion, fell to the ground, and were mashed almost beyond recognition.

About fifty farmhouses were swept away, and the loss to the crops destroyed will amount to $25,000. Near Tompkinsville, James Payne's house was wrecked and several members of the family injured. Sam McPherson's house and Jacob Bartlett's distillery were destroyed near Springfield. The damage amounted to $10,000.

Much A-Do About Nothing.

WEST POINT, Ga., June 23.—The peaceful inhabitants of this town were considerably excited recently when they were startled by a succession of blood curdling screams from a dozen colored women, and on looking in the direction from whence they came, a large crowd was seen running with a speed, head and tail up, and on her horns what appeared to be a young child. The spectators were horrified at the sight, and a number of West Point's valiant men rushed to the rescue, and boldly faced the infuriated beast. It was certainly much a-do about nothing.

A Father's Strange Action.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The steamer La Bretagne, which has arrived here from Havre, reported that Joseph Feys, aged 46 years, a stevedore passenger, native of Switzerland, while conversing with his family, consisting of a wife and five children, suddenly dragged his 2-year-old son, Pierre, from his mother's arm and threw him into the sea. The child was dead, and the father, who was apparently insane, was seized by officers of the ship and put in prison. He had threatened to throw all his children overboard.

She Was Not Dead.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Dolly Davis, a well known variety actress who was reported to have committed suicide at Canton Landing, N. She declared that it was a remarkable case of identity.

The Georgia Press Association is not a political organization, but is formed solely for the purpose of mutual benefit, the improvement and advancement of the press in this State, and for social intercourse. Hence, at its recent meeting in Atlanta, it sat down on an attempt to ring in some political resolutions, and that too with an emphasis that will deter any effort of this character in future.—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

THERE are in the democratic party in Alabama many men with aspirations and ambitions. There is no single great political measure in favor of which the leaders or the people of the party in the state are united. There are conflicting interests. There are conflicting opinions. The only test of democracy in Alabama is a vote for the candidates of the party. No other test is now possible. Any other test would put the republicans in power at the first election. This is not exactly a wholesome or safe state of affairs. It is greatly to be wished that it were otherwise. But it is as it is; and any misapprehension concerning it is full of danger. If under these circumstances, everybody proceeds to jump on all those to whose aspirations he is opposed, or whose policy he deems heretical, or whose policy he thinks unwise, divisions are inevitable, and disaster certain. If there ever was, or ever can be, a time when mutual conciliation and concession and good temper and forbearance are a patriotic duty, it is now in this state.—Piedmont Inquirer.

Tredegar's Immense Steel Plant.

In presenting to intelligent people, especially those at a distance, the advantages possessed by any one of our Southern towns over another and its capability of becoming a great iron or steel manufacturing center, we must first consider the quality and quantity of ore to be obtained and the proximity of the mines to the town. The facilities for shipping the ore after being smelted and ready for market must also be looked upon as a very important consideration and the possibilities of obtaining reliable and cheap labor, near at hand, in unlimited supplies, is a matter which cannot be overlooked without serious trouble and damage, often proving very detrimental to the manufacturer when not considered. Many other minor things might be regarded with the necessary amount of care due them, but the points which we have mentioned here are the essential ones; to be overlooked by none and to be carefully and thoughtfully considered by all who contemplate establishing in this the fast growing, great manufacturing section of our country, an enterprise of the kind above mentioned.

In travelling around through the South and through Alabama, the great southern iron and coal bed, we have found no place that is better situated and in every way well adapted to the manufacturing of iron and steel than is the steady and reliable city of Tredegar, in north-eastern Alabama, situated beautifully among the mountains and surrounded by apparently inexhaustible supplies of red hematite ore and plenty of good furnace coal. It is truly a most desirable place in which to establish a gigantic steel plant and numerous other industries which follow in the wake of steel. Every facility for shipping can be secured here. Labor is cheap and can be commanded in desired quantities from the surrounding towns and cities.

The city is well laid off having splendid wide streets, well made and thoroughly kept up.

We can truly say that in all our travelling through this portion of the country, we have found no better or more delightful situation for a great and flourishing manufacturing city than is here presented to us.

To all who wish further information concerning the city of Tredegar and the many great inducements here offered to manufacturers, we would refer you to the Jacksonville Mining & Manufacturing Company whom we feel sure will be able and willing to fully advise you on the subject. The company's post office address is Jacksonville, Alabama.

WITH A WHOOP

WM. MCKINLEY

IS NOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION FOR GOVERNOR

OF Ohio, by the Republicans—Foraker Makes the Nomination and Brings out His Rebel Flag—High or Low Tariff The Issue in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., June 27.—The second day of the Republican State convention of Ohio opened bright and clear. The sun was still warm and the heat very oppressive, but both heat and sun were powerless to abate the enthusiasm of the Republican hosts who had gathered in anticipation of the stirring scenes of the day.

It was rumored early in the morning that McKinley would throw down the gauntlet to the low tariff men in his speech of acceptance, and that the coming contest, if won at all, must be on the principles of the McKinley tariff. The effect of this information was to infuse with greater enthusiasm the stalwart or pronounced McKinley element, and if it had a depressive influence on the dissenters of the party this influence was never felt in the convention. The proceedings of the day were opened by prayer after which the report of the committee on credentials was presented and adopted.

The committee on permanent organization reported amid applause the name of Gen. Asa S. Bushnell, of Clark county, for permanent chairman of the convention, and E. J. Kessinger of Athens for permanent secretary.

Chairman Bushnell's address was brief. "Gentlemen of the convention," said he, "I thank you for this distinguished honor conferred upon me. I congratulate you upon the bright sunshine this morning, (laughter), giving promise of an early and abundant harvest. (Laughter.) The gathering of which will be a more substantial benefit to the whole people of this country than the organization of any number of new political parties." (Applause and cheers.)

Nominations were declared in order and ex-Governor Foraker arose to present the name of Wm. McKinley for governor. At the sight of the familiar figure of the ex-Governor and sturdy campaigner the convention fairly went mad with enthusiasm. For over a minute applause and cheers reverberated through the immense building, while Foraker bowed and smiled acknowledgement. "Gentlemen of the convention," he said, "I have now a most pleasing duty to perform. This contest upon which we are about to enter is to be in some respects of an unusual character. While it is to be hoped that we are not called upon to confront a greater variety than ever before. In the first place we must fight that time honored Democratic party which it would appear that the very devil himself couldn't kill. (Applause.) In the next place nobody yet knows how many third parties there are. (Laughter.) We do know, however, that the political shibboleth of each and every one of those political organizations will be "anything to beat the Republican party. (Laughter.) Not only is the Governorship of the great State of Ohio, but this contest involves more than a Governorship, more than a general assembly, more than public institutions. It reaches out into national politics. A United States Senator will depend upon its result, and more important still than all this it will determine whether this great State of Ohio is to go into next great national contest of 1892 at the head of the Republican or at the head of the Democratic column (applause.) We shall win this fight (applause) but we must not be content with simply winning it. We must win it triumphantly, (applause) decisively, overwhelmingly, (cheers), and to that end we must select for our standard bearer that man who of all others can most surely command our undivided strength (applause.) We must have as our leader a fit representative of our views with respect to every living issue, who in his record and his personality is the best type we have of illustrious achievements and moral grandeur of Republicanism. (Cheers.) He must be more even than that; he must have a sure place in the confidence and in the affections of the Republicans of Ohio. Such a leader we have. It is not my privilege to point him out, that has been already done. By common consent, all eyes have turned in the direction of one man. There is one who measured by the exigencies of this occasion stands a full head and shoulders above all his comrades, and that man is William McKinley. (Prolonged cheers and applause.) There are many reasons why he should be nominated. In the first place everybody knows him. (Laughter.) He does not need any introduction anywhere. Every Republican in Ohio not only knows him, but what is better, every Republican in Ohio loves him. (Good, Good, applause.) That is not all, every Democrat in Ohio knows him and every Democrat in Ohio fears him. (Applause.) His name is a household word throughout the nation and throughout the whole world. Wherever civilization exists it has become known. (Laughter and applause.) In the first place he is true and tried and is no experiment. He has been a long time in the public service. He began thirty years ago. He started in with Abraham Lincoln. (Prolonged applause.) He commenced on the 12th day of June 1861 when he enlisted as a private in the twenty-third Ohio Regiment. (Applause.) He began as a private and by bravery in many bloody battles he came out as Major in his Regiment (applause) when the last armed rebel had surrendered. (Cheers.) He has been identified with every great measure of the Republican party in both field and forum. (Cheers.) His tariff course has been one of patriotic conviction, and time will justify this conviction. (Cheers.) No Republican candidate has ever suffered defeat through the fault of William McKinley.

This thrust at certain Ohio Republicans who opposed Foraker and wrought his defeat in the last gubernatorial election was received with the wildest enthusiasm.

There is not one single drop of cut throat blood in his veins. (Cheers.) He is morally incapable of treachery and cowardice of political assassination. (Applause.) He doesn't know what a political razor is and has only contempt for the sneaking, hypocritical scoundrel who would use one. (Prolonged applause and cheers.) This convention today means that 500,000 Republican voters of Ohio have got together (applause) and are proud of their party and its principles, proud of its representation in official place in both the State and nation.

We are proud of the conservative and patriotic General Harrison who sits in the White House. (Cheers and applause.) We are proud, too, of that brilliant and magnificent statesman who has taught the law to Europe with respect to America—Jas. G. Blaine. (Prolonged applause) had tossing and fan waving for over a minute. We are proud also of the representation of Ohio in the cabinet of the President of the United States in the person of Hon. Charles Foster. (Cheers.) We are proud of one great Senator who has served his State with such distinction, standing at the head of the grand men in the greatest legislative body on earth, (cheers.) Ohio is the Lookout Mountain of the political battles upon which we are entering, and William McKinley, Jr., is the Joe Hooker of the Republican party (cheers) and we are the boys (laughter) who intend to follow him up its slope and rugged mountain side and help him plant the flag of Republicanism in triumph there, (applause), and next year, inspired by this glorious achievement, all the columns from Maine to Oregon will be turned against the common enemy, and as to them it will be as to Bragg in 1863. (Laughter.) Their lines will be broken, and before the resistless onslaught they will be swept back into the depths of defeat and despair. Applause.

I move now, Mr. Chairman, that the rules of this convention be suspended and that by acclamation we nominate to be our candidate for governor that brilliant statesman and soldier and orator, Wm. McKinley. Prolonged cheers.

Col. Robert Harlan, the colored orator of Cincinnati, seconded Major McKinley's nomination "on behalf of 30,000 colored voters of Ohio." With one wild hilarious cheer of affirmation the convention declared Major McKinley nominated for Governor by acclamation, and a committee was appointed to apprise him of his nomination and escorted him to the hall.

His appearance was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm. "I now have the pleasure," said the chairman, "of introducing to you the distinguished soldier and statesman, your nominee for Governor and your next Governor, Wm. McKinley, Jr."

Again the enthusiasm of the admirers of the distinguished Ohioan burst forth, and one thousand frantic, cheering struggling Republicans waved their hands and fans pounded with their canes and re-echoed the names of "McKinley, McKinley."

Death of Mr. Williams.

TALLADEGA, Ala., June 23.—Mr. W. S. Williams, father of John C. Williams, proprietor of Our Mountain Home, and President of the Alabama Press Association, and of P. S. Williams, for seven years chief of police of Talladeega, died at his home at six o'clock this afternoon, in his seventy-second year. Deceased was an old and highly respected citizen of this place and leaves a large number of relatives to mourn his death.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. THE SUB-TREASURY.

Senator George Writes a Letter Against It.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 24.—A Canton, Miss., special says: The Mississippiian, the leading State Democratic organ, will publish tomorrow a seven-column letter from Senator George, in which he comes out squarely in favor of the Ocala platform excepting as to the Sub-Treasury and land loan features and government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines.

With these exceptions he takes advance ground in advocacy of the Alliance demands, and his letter will cause a sensation throughout the State. It was submitted last evening to Colonel Livingston, of Georgia, a leading Southern Alliance man, who said it was a wonderful exposition of the Ocala demands, and would place Senator George in a strong light before the Alliance.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

CANTON, Miss., June 24.—The Mississippi State Democratic Association published a seven column letter this morning from Senator George, in which he declares in favor of the Ocala platform, excepting as to the sub-treasury and land loan features and the Government ownership of railroad and telegraph lines.

Colonel Livingston, the leading Southern Alliance man, says the letter is a wonderful exposition of the Ocala demands, and will place Senator George in a strong light before the Alliance.

THE EDITOR COULDN'T SWALLOW IT.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 24.—It now turns out that the reason why Rev. Baylus Cade resigned his position as editor of the Raleigh Polk's Alliance organ, The Progressive Farmer, was that he would not advocate the sub-treasury bill.

This is revealed by his editorial farewell to day, in which he says: "After a careful and patient study of the Sub-Treasury bill, I am convinced that its enactment into a law would be disastrous to the country, and especially so to the agricultural interests. Holding this view, I cannot write one word in favor of that bill. The dominant sentiment of the Alliance upon this measure in an irreconcilable conflict with my views, and the only manly and honorable course left for me is to retire and let some other editor take charge whose views are in harmony with those of the friends of the sub-treasury bill."

Alabama Educational Association.

The Decennial Meeting of the Alabama Educational Association will be held at East Lake, near Birmingham, July 1, 2, and 3. All the leading railroads in the State will give reduced rates to teachers and others attending. The Louisville and Nashville system has agreed to give one fare for the round trip, from all stations on its lines in Alabama, tickets to be sold June 29 and 30, and good until July 5. If any road fails to give this rate to teachers applying, tickets should be bought at lowest rates to the nearest station on the L. & N. system. All teachers wearing the authorized badge of the Association will be passed free of charge on the East Lake Railway.

Provision has been made for Board at East Lake, at the low rate of $1.00 a day; or, if desired, teachers may secure rooms in the city and obtain meals at the Howard College Restaurant. Reduced rates will be given in Birmingham, as follows: Thomas house, $1.00 per day; Eagle hotel $1.75 per day; Florence hotel $2.00 and $2.50 per day. Those desiring to engage board in advance should address Prof. A. D. Smith, or Prof. G. W. Macon, East Lake, Ala.

A NICE GAME OF BALL.

The Lightweights of Two Towns Engage in a Contest.

Decidedly the best and most interesting game of ball played here this season was between the Jacksonville Lightweights and the Anniston Lightweights on the grounds of the Association, yesterday evening. The names of the young men who engage in the contest are:

JACKSONVILLE NINE.
Hames, Stephenson, Williams, McGinnis, Whisenant, Montgomery, Walker, Clarke, Wyly.

ANNISTON NINE.
Marti, Stokes, Clarke, Scott, Jones, Proctor, Hurst, Watters, Jeffers.

For five innings the play on both sides was good indeed, only two tallies each being scored. The Jacksonville boys seemed to lose energy on the sixth inning and Anniston kept running up her scores. At the close of the game the score stood 14 to 6 in favor of Anniston. Messrs. Crook of Jacksonville, and Nesbit, of our city upped the game.

The Anniston Lightweights have shown themselves the best club on the grounds this season and the Jacksonville boys came near making a very close and interesting match with them.—Anniston Hot Blast.

The recently elected United States Senator of Georgia, General John B. Gordon, says:

Mr. A. K. Hawkes—Dear Sir: The pantoscopic glasses you furnished me some time since give excellent satisfaction. I have tested them by use, and must say they are unequalled in clearness and brilliancy by any that I have ever worn.

Respectfully,
JOHN B. GORDON,
Ex-Governor of State of Georgia.

STATE NORMAL COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT POSTPONED.

Normal Ray.

Never in the history of the State Normal College at Troy has the work been so completely interrupted as has been within the past months. April 20th, the terrible catastrophe, the collapse of the new and commodious Folmar's Opera House occurred, in which Miss Annie Foster, member of the Middle Class, and Miss Fannie Lou Starke, former student, were killed, and twelve to fifteen others, nearly all students, more or less seriously wounded. In several cases great fears were entertained as to the outcome, and what with the horror of that killing and suffering, the work of the College was about as good as paralyzed for ten days, and this was just at the opening of preparations for the Annual Commencement.

After rallying somewhat from this great shock, the work of Commencement was about to begin when the sad intelligence came over the wires of the unexpected death of Miss Leila C. Eldridge, an Alumnus of this College, who had afterwards been made President's Clerk and more recently teacher of the Sixth Grade, City School.

Miss Eldridge's peculiar relations to the College and her sweet disposition had endeared her to all, and her death was a crushing blow, particularly to her own family, that of President Eldridge.

Twice deferred preparations crowded so close on Commencement time, that by advice of Hon. J. G. Harris, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the unanimous concurrence of the candidates for graduation, the Commencement Exercises were postponed to the last week of the Summer Term, September 8th to 9th, inclusive.

All things concerned, this was the only course to take and have any Commencement would be a calamity to the classes of '91 and the entire College, to which memory would ever revert in sorrow.

By September 8th to 9th a new hall will be ready, and all things considered the time is most auspicious, for it will be the closing of the Peabody State Normal Institute when many teachers of repute from different parts of the State will be in attendance. Besides, this extension of time gives opportunity for the minds of the classes to rally and all work to be completed in good shape.

We shall hope to see a grand victory to the '91 classes enacted thus from the very jaws of defeat.

Mississippi Farmers All Right.

The people of Mississippi are covering themselves with glory. The returns from the primary election in Madison county, one of the richest farming counties of the State, show an overwhelming majority for the George candidates. The Barksdale and sub-treasury candidates were outnumbered at the polls three to one. The result is brought about by the farmers themselves, who refuse to endorse the demands of the local alliance which declared for Barksdale and the sub-treasury nonsense. Senator George is having an easy walk over. Rightly so, since he represents the true interests of the farmer and plants himself firmly upon those Democratic principles which the people of Mississippi have learned to reverence. That proud State has ever upheld the banner of popular independence against servitude to congressional power. She cannot now be seduced from her allegiance to the doctrines of Jefferson by calamity demagogues who would offer a bribe which they have no power to pay. It is a strange sight to witness, while Senator George is making this gallant fight, to see recalcitrant Mississippians cringing before the petty and ignorant upstarts of the hour, the mushroom growth of a foul political atmosphere. This was not so in 1860. In those trying days every Mississippian stood ready to battle then was against Congressional usurpation and Federal interference with the domestic affairs of the State. Now we find men, forgetful of the lessons taught by their hero fathers, ready to surrender the dearest rights of freemen into the hands of Congressional agents.

Happily there are not a great number of such men. Many of those who clamor for new doctrine have listened to class appeals, and have been deluded by the specious sophistries of designing politicians. As against this "new issue," however, we find the body of Democratic farmers arrayed in solid phalanx. They do not intend to be slaughtered in the house of their fathers. All honor to Senator George and the noble Mississippi farmers!

Calling on Mrs. Davis.

New York, N. Y., June 23.—The Richmond committee, headed by Mayor Ellsby, had an interview today with Mrs. Jefferson Davis relative to the removal of the remains of the late Jefferson Davis to Richmond.

Mrs. Davis received the committee and told them that, as a similar committee from Mississippi would call tomorrow, she would postpone her decision. The committee will remain here a few days.

OLD ALLEN YOUNG'S TRIAL.

Dejection and Despair Enveloped the Murderer Husband.

SCOTTSBORO, June 23.—The trial of Allen Young, charged with murdering his wife, drew a large crowd of people to town today. At an early hour this morning people began to arrive from every direction and by nine o'clock the streets were literally packed, all anxious to learn something of the damnable deed and the result of the examination of the perpetrator thereof.

The case was called by Esquire McClendon in the circuit court room at 11 o'clock, and the large crowd on the streets made a break for the court house and in less time than it takes to tell it every inch of available standing room was taken and a large portion of the crowd had to remain out.

The state was represented by Solicitor R. C. Hunt and the defense by Virgil Bouldin and J. B. Ashley. The defendant's attorneys waived examination, and the court remanded Young to jail without bail.

Young looked the picture of despair and was seemingly oblivious of his surroundings, refusing absolutely to talk.

The saddest incident was the appearance of Young's daughter in court. She is a beautiful young woman, about 19 years old. It is said that she says that her father is not insane, and there is a diversity of opinion on this point. Be it said to the credit of our people that there was no demonstration of violence here today, and it is likely that the law will be allowed to take its course.

There is a new ordinance in London which enacts that any cabman finding an article of value in his vehicle and taking it to the nearest police station, shall be entitled to the possession of it if it is not claimed within three months. If it is claimed within that period he receives a reward determined by an official valuation. The consequence is that the number of articles so recovered has suddenly increased ten-fold. One "cabby" made a big haul the other day. The passenger incautiously left a jewel case in the cab, but remembered it almost instantly, and turned back to get it only to see the "cabby" whipping up his horse in the distance. He hurried to the nearest police station and there was the "cabby," case and all. The jewels were worth $1,750, and the examiner said that the official reward was $250, which he would reduce in this particular case considering all the circumstances, to $100, which the victim paid protesting that the articles could not really be said to have been lost at all.

BALLOON BURST.

St. PETERSBURG, June 22.—A terrible balloon accident occurred near this city yesterday.

A large balloon belonging to Count A. Praxine was being inflated with gas, when it escaped from the people who were holding it to the ground and carried upward four workmen who were in the car.

The balloon rose rapidly to a great height and then burst.

The bodies of the four unlucky workmen, after the explosion, fell to the ground and were mashed almost beyond recognition.

The shocking accident was witnessed by 10,000 people, who had gathered to see the excursion.

When the bodies of the men were seen falling to the ground many spectators turned their heads away to keep from witnessing the awful sight, and many women fainted.

Here is a temperance item from a London letter in the New York Times: "Rev. Osbert Mordaunt, rector of Hampton Lucy, Warwickshire, for fourteen years has owned and run the solitary tavern in the village. This tap sells nothing but pure ale, neither wine nor spirits being permitted, and the manager is allowed to make a profit on eatables, but not a penny on beer, so he has no object to encourage drinking. The result is that, while the tavern yields a profit, drunkenness has disappeared from the village and the health rate is much higher than in other places roundabout. All the profits of the concern are devoted to public purposes."

Four Third party evangelists will be in Georgia next month: Polk, Macune, Sockless Simpson and Mrs. Short Hair Lease. Three of these lights are old time Republicans. Polk has just been dipped. He once voted the Democratic ticket. He now wants to be Harrison's successor. Colonel Livingston will join the missionaries and speak at their meetings. He says he's not in it, but it looks that way.—Tribune of Rome.

One of the oldest coins existence is owned by Herman Gottschalk, of New York, and it will be exhibited at the World's Fair in Chicago. It comes down from Solomon's time and has raised inscriptions of pure gold while the diet is of bronze. An inferior coin of the same period is at the British Museum, and the directors have offered Mr. Gottschalk $5000 for an exchange of coins. An old Rumanian rabbi bequeathed it to Mr. Gottschalk in 1878.

Mr. O. P. Williams, who lives a few miles west of the city, discovered some white blackberry plants in the woods a year ago, and from them has propagated a number of plants. He furnished a reporter with some of the fruit yesterday.—Anniston Hot Blast.

WAKED IN A COFFIN.

Sam Yancey Came to Just in Time to Keep From Being Buried.

Sam Yancey, a colored miner at Smith's Upper mines, narrowly escaped being a victim to the horrible fate of being buried alive. Yesterday, says the Daily Bessemer, "for several days Sam has been at the point of death from typhoid fever, and yesterday morning he fell off into a sound sleep, and after being in this condition for some time his friends endeavored to arouse him, but without success. The conclusion was once arrived at that Sam had passed in his checks and his spirit had gone to that 'bourne from whence no traveler returns.'"

In accordance with this belief, Sam's friends began making preparations to give him a respectable burial. His measure was taken and a messenger was despatched for a coffin. Upon its arrival the supposed corpse was placed in it, and when the cover was about to be placed on, Sam recovered from his protracted stupor and informed his friends in unmistakable language that he was not dead, and at the same time vehemently protested against being buried alive.

It is useless to say that the mourners and friends who had gathered to take farewell look upon Sam's dusky countenance were frightened, and some of them took their departure with the swiftness of a March hare.

BURCH GETS BAIL.

The Bond of Shelly's Slayer Fixed at $7,000.

SELMA, Ala., June 23.—Today at 11 o'clock a. m. the argument closed in the habeas corpus trial of B. F. Burch.

Judge John Moore in a clear concise manner, cited the law on the bill of rights, and said that inasmuch as in his judgment a jury would not fix death penalty, he could see no reason why bail should not be allowed, and fixed the sum at $7,000, which was made immediately with D. S. Troy, W. H. Gayle, and C. E. Halls as bondsmen.

Burch will leave this evening for Montgomery. He took the discussion as calmly as before, with not a muscle of him moving.

The National Garment Cutter.

The favor which this system of Garment Cutting is gaining in this locality and other parts where it is being introduced is sufficient evidence of its superior merits as a convenient and economizing article which every family should soon number among their household effects. To be provided with an apparatus which can be brought into requisition at any time (however simple the article of clothing or cheap the material to be used) and get a perfectly fitting bit of apparel is an item in household economy that no prudent housewife can dispute. It is a fact known to every one that at least one-half of the clothing worn by the masses of our people is trimmed out by the overworked mothers in a comparatively haphazard manner, simply because she has no knowledge of the intricacies of the systems of cutting and fitting in use nor the time to devote to their study. As a consequence children and adults also are compelled to wear garments both unbecoming and uncomfortable. But in the National Garment Cutter there is a relief from all this, and every family can be supplied with the means by which all kinds of clothing can be cut and made up at home so as to lend beauty to the form, comfort to the wearer and be a source of pride to the mother and others of the family who have this work to attend to. Although the system has been in use only a few years its merits have pushed it to the front so rapidly that it is pretty thoroughly introduced throughout several states, and it is a contrivance that has to live on merit alone because its simplicity lays it open to every eye so clearly that none can be deceived. All there is to it is discernable on short investigation, hence the carver's glib cannot build up in the unsuspecting mind of the purchaser a train of expectations that will never be thoroughly realized. In brief the "cutter" is simple, cheap, easily understood, never erring in its work after its use is learned. Will last for years with ordinary care and should be in every household in the land.

The teachers here will be pleased to explain the work to any lady in Jacksonville or vicinity. Good energetic persons wanted to introduce the cutter in Alabama and adjoining states. We want none but reliable people to work for us; to such we offer special inducements. For particulars address

Nat. Garment Cutter Co., Sirs:—Having used your Garment Cutter for some time I am happily surprised at the simplicity and usefulness of it. It has saved me much more than cost already. Wishing you success, I am Very Respectfully,
